BRYAN LOSES FIRST COMMITTEE BATTLE

Commoner's Plan to Put the Tinware on Colonel Guffy Fails--National Committee in Session.

Washington, Jan. 8.—When the democratic national committee went into session here shortly before 1 o'clock this afternoon Wm. J. Bryan at once became a storm center in an attempt to have James M. Guffy, of Pennsylvania, thrown out of the committee.

The roll call for the states had but started when the trouble broke. James A. Weatherly, of Alabama, was recently selected by the Alabama state committee to succeed John Tomlinson, deceased. When his name was called today Mr. Bryan asked if there was a protest. None being received the Nebraskaan, who had been given an ovation when he entered the room, moved that the selection be approved.

The Fight Begins.

National Committeeman Brown, of Vermont, declared that affirmative action by the national committee was not necessary, that the matter lay entirely in the hands of the state committee. Chairman Mack sustained this point of order.

"I appeal from the decision of the chair," shouted Mr. Bryan.

He declared that it was plain there was a purpose to head off a protest against Col. Guffy and that the matter ought to be thoroughly discussed.

At this interesting juncture a motion to go into executive session was carried and the doors were closed. The Pennsylvania fight was plunged into at once. Representative A. Mitchell Palmer, contesting Guffy's place on the committee, was in the room, holding the Utah proxy.

Bryan Loses Out.

Mr. Bryan's appeal from the ruling in the Alabama case was defeated by a vote of 33 to 11. This indicated that the committee was clearly against the Nebraskaan in his fight on Col. Guffy and that the latter would be retained on the committee beyond all question.

The committee set 3 o'clock as the time for hearing the reports of the various states bidding for the convention. As this time approached, Baltimore's chances seemed to be increasing. It was said that the supporters of Gov. Woodrow Wilson were throwing their strength to Baltimore. There appeared to be unanimity of opinion among the members that the city to be awarded the convention must come forward with a definite offer of $100,000. Baltimore, it was said, was the only city at this time to have made such a definite proposition.

Opposed to St. Louis.

There was some opposition to St. Louis on the ground that both former Governor Folk and Speaker Champ Clark of Missouri, were presidential aspirants. New York's chances for the convention suffered from a feeling among the delegates that that city was "too near Wall street and too close to Tammany Hall."

The probabilities are that the committee will dispose of the primary question by adopting a permissive plan whereby states having primary laws may select delegates in that manner. It is also proposed that state committees shall be given power to direct that primaries be held in states that desire to raise the necessary money.

Some doubt existed today as to just what disposition the committee would make of the question of convention arrangements the whole matter may be left in the hands of Chairman Norman Mack or it may be turned over to a sub-committee, which it was said will be headed by Roger Sullivan, of Illinois. Tom Taggart, of Indiana, will be a member of such a sub-committee.

BIG DECISIONS BELIEVED DUE

Supreme Court Ready to Hand Down Rulings in Trust Cases.

NEW LIGHT ON LAWS

Washington, Jan. 7.—With more than one hundred cases under consideration, the supreme court of the United States is expected to hand down many important decisions tomorrow, when it convenes after the holiday recess. Court adjourned immediately after convening because of the funeral of Justice Day's wife.

More light may be shed on the anti-trust problem by decisions in the St. Louis bridge case, the "hard coal" suit against the principal anthracite coal-carrying railroads and coal-producing companies of Pennsylvania, and the "cotton corner" case arising out of transactions on the New York Cotton exchange.

The validity of several federal laws may be determined. Foremost among these is the Employers' Liability law, which has been under consideration by the court since last February. A second decision may be rendered regarding the validity of the "Carmack amendment" to the Interstate Commerce laws, whereby initial carriers were made liable for damages or loss of goods, whether occurring on their lines or those of connecting carriers.

The fate of a score or more of state laws may be decided. Of these, the constitutionality of the Oregon initiative and referendum system has attracted the most attention; because the ruling of the court will be applicable to laws in nearly half the states of the union.

Foreign corporation laws of Kansas, New York, and Texas may be passed upon. Other laws under consideration are the "Hours of Service Law" for railroad employees in the State of Washington; the Missouri anti-trust law; the North Dakota drainage law; the Kansas "Black Powder Law"; the New York transfer tax law; the Montana law taxing hand laundries; the North Carolina law regulating the receipt of goods by railroads; and the Arkansas law requiring railroads to pay, within thirty days, claims for live stock killed by trains.

Several general questions of law may be decided, such as the validity of the transfer of allotted lands by thousands of Oklahoma Indians, and the liability of insurance companies for policies on the lives of men executed for murder. The latter point arose in the case of Samuel J. McGue, mayor of Charlottesville, Va., who was executed in 1905 for the murder of his wife.

DRILLING REBEL RECRUITS AT WU-CHANG

Imperial Forces at Chin Wang-tao Notify Pekin They Want Republic.

EMPEROR READY TO FLEE INTO MONGOLIA

The imperial government troops of China and the revolutionary forces are marking time preparatory to an onslaught which threatens to be more disastrous than the earlier engagements. The final outcome seems to be all in favor of the rebels, a defection of the troops from the imperial ranks having been reported at many points. At one place alone four thousand of them have notified the foreign legations in Pekin that they desire the formation of a republic. The above photographs are the latest to arrive here. One shows a soldier at Hankow about to be put to death; another pictures the drilling of rebel troops at Wu Chang.

From Harbin comes the report that the commander of the imperial troops at Zekhe, Mongolia, has received 100,000 taels and instructions to prepare a residence for the Emperor and other members of the royal family and to organize a Mongol bodyguard.

MAKES A $50,000 PURCHASE OF CALHOUN STREET REALTY

Charles Goodman Buys 40 Feet Between Wayne and Washington at $1,250 Per Front Foot.

Under a deal which is now being closed, Charles Goodman has purchased forty feet of business realty on Calhoun street, between Wayne street and Washington boulevard, for $50,000 or at the rate of $1,250 per front foot.

The purchase was made from the heirs of the Schmitz estate and is understood to be entirely an investment proposition. The property is located on the west side of Calhoun street, beginning twenty feet south of the alley between Wayne and Washington, and it is 120 feet in depth.

The forty feet is occupied by two two-story brick business buildings, one of which is occupied by the Auman cigar factory and the other by the Schanz photographic studio. Herman Michaels is said to have acted as agent for the Schmitz estate heirs in the negotiations.

Mr. Goodman, it is said, will leave the tenants undisturbed in the property, as the purchase was made purely as an investment with a firm confidence in the continued increase in values of Fort Wayne realty, which have shown tremendous gains in the past few years. Mr. Goodman was already the owner of considerable valuable Fort Wayne business realty before making his present purchase.

IN TRIBUTE TO DEAD ATTORNEY

Bar Honors Memory of the Late William A. Campbell.

BURIAL ON TUESDAY

Members of the Allen County Bar, in session at the circuit court room this morning, united in a tribute of respect to the memory of William A. Campbell, the young attorney whose death occurred at Hope hospital early Sunday morning after a brief illness from uraemic poisoning.

Hon. W. P. Breen presided at the meeting of the bar, and among those who spoke of word of personal appreciation of the worth of the young attorney claimed by death were Judge Walter Olds, Judge W. J. Vesey, Hon. T. E. Ellison, John Morris, Judge Sol A. Wood, P. A. Randall and Creighton H. Williams.

Judge Olds, Judge Vesey, Judge Wood, H. G. Hogan and C. H. Williams were named as a committee to prepare resolutions expressive of the bar's tribute to Mr. Campbell's memory, and a committee of about twenty members of the bar association was named to attend the funeral service at Kendallville. A special car will leave here at 10 o'clock tomorrow for the accommodation of those who desire to attend the funeral.

His funeral Tuesday

Funeral services for Mr. Campbell will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from Trinity Episcopal church at Kendallville, conducted by Rev. Webster S. Wilson, the rector, assisted by Rev. E. W. Averill, of Fort Wayne. The vested choir from Trinity church, Fort Wayne, will render the musical service.

A special interurban car, leaving this city early Tuesday afternoon over the Toledo and Chicago line, will carry Fort Wayne friends to the funeral. The interment will occur at Lake View cemetery, Kendallville.

The remains of the young lawyer were taken to Kendallville Sunday morning on a special car and were removed to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Archey Campbell.

Mr. Campbell was taken ill on Wednesday morning and went at once to the hospital, though his condition was not at first believed to be serious. Within a short time, however, more serious complications developed, other physicians were called into the case as counsel, and Mr. Campbell, who was in the east on a visit to friends, was summoned by telegraph, as were also the young man's parents from their home in Kendallville. Throughout Friday and Saturday the patient remained in an unconscious state and it was realized that the situation offered but little hope that he would survive. The young wife reached her husband's bedside Saturday afternoon, and with his parents and a brother, was with him when the end came at 12:30 o'clock Sunday morning.

Cuts Off Promising Career.

The death of Mr. Campbell comes as a severe blow to a very large circle of friends and it cuts off a career of untold promise.

BOARD WILL INSIST THAT THE CONTRACT BE PASSED

Officials Say They Have Exhausted Every Means of Obtaining New Garbage Agreement.

Members of the board of public works will insist at the meeting of the city council tomorrow night that the council approve the contract for garbage collection with David Winburn for the simple reason that it is the best that can be done for this year.

At the close of the conference this morning one of the members of the board said: "We have talked the matter over thoroughly and every one of us is anxious to improve the garbage collection system and to provide facilities for proper disposal, but we can't do it this year."

"For instance, suppose that the city should undertake the job it would mean an investment right from the start of from $8,000 to $10,000 that would practically be of no value in a year or two. "The city would have to build a big barn to accommodate its horses and wagons, from twenty to twenty-five head of horses would have to be bought along with twenty-five sets of harness, the barn equipment and other things necessary and there is no money available just now to do it."

"Then there is another thing to be considered. If we buy this equipment and build a barn it would probably not be located so that it would be of service to us in another year. When a new garbage incineration or reduction plant is established it will be outside the city some place and then the barn would have to be built new."

"The board anticipates that conditions are bad but the city must have time to remedy them and when the work is done it must be taken care of properly. We think that this year ought to be devoted to the question of solving the perplexing problem. We have to ascertain from other cities the best methods of taking care of garbage and time enough ought to be devoted to this to insure that we will be on the right road when we start."

"Every truck company in the city has been offered the contract and none of them offered it and we can get nobody but Winburn to undertake the big task. Under these conditions we will ask that a contract be approved so that we can go ahead and get the work started."

The garbage contract is in the hands of the council committee on contracts and franchises and a special garbage committee but these bodies have made no report and the members are divided on the question.

The board is proceeding on the theory that it is doing the best it can under the circumstances and will explain at the council meeting tomorrow night the importance of giving its approval.

McMANIGAL HIDDEN IN INDIANAPOLIS

Dynamite Confessor Ready to Tell Story to Federal Grand Jury.

FATHER VISITS HIM.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 8.—Ortie E. McManigal, to be the principal witness in the federal grand jury's investigation of the alleged dynamiting plot, ended his secret journey from Los Angeles today. Under heavy guard he was brought into this city before daylight and lodged in a cell room in the government building.

McManigal came by way of Kansas City and Chicago in custody of authorities of Los Angeles county and deputy United States marshals. It was prearranged that his arrival here and transfer from the train to the federal building should be hidden.

Scene of Operations.

The seclusion surrounding the witness, whose confession is believed to have brought about the pleas of guilty of the McNamara brothers, was increased in Indianapolis because it was here that McManigal, according to his confession, started on many of his dynamiting expeditions, directed by John J. McNamara, secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers.

While it is not stated by District Attorney Charles W. Miller how long McManigal will be kept or when he will first appear before the jurors it is known the government will make no mistake.

GIFTED YOUNG FORT WAYNE ATTORNEY DEAD AFTER BRIEF ILLNESS

RICHESON PLEA GOES OVER A DAY

Murderer of Sweetheart Ready to Receive a Death Doom.

LIFE MAY BE SPARED.

Boston, Jan. 8.—As the Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson, former pastor of Immanuel Baptist church of Cambridge, was about to be taken from Charles street jail to the superior court today to change his plea from not guilty to guilty of wilfully murdering his former sweetheart, Avis Linnel, his jailers were notified that his counsel could not be present and that the accused clergyman need not appear until tomorrow. Even if Richeson pleads guilty to the first degree indictment tomorrow it is said sentence to the electric chair will not be pronounced for a week or two and that the governor and council will finally decide his fate.

Broken in spirit, weak in body, and professing deepest remorse, Rev. Richeson expected to go before Suffolk county superior criminal court late today to offer his plea of guilty to an indictment charging him with murder. While the court has no option but to pass sentence of death, counsel for Richeson hope the fact that the confession of guilt will save the county large sums, protect innocent persons from entrapment, experienced on witness stand and suppress much testimony prejudicial to public morals will have weight with the governor and executive council when the petition for commutation is presented.

MOTHER SLAIN BY CRAZY SON

Boy Then Completes the Tragedy by Suicide at Milford, Mass.

DESPERATE STRUGGLE

Milford, Mass., Jan. 8.—Clarence L. Racine, 17 years old, killed his mother, Mrs. Louis Racine, with a butcher knife, set fire to the house and then fatally stabbed himself today. The blaze was extinguished by firemen with little loss. The boy is believed to have been temporarily insane.

There were indications that the mother made a fight for her life from the kitchen, where the struggle began, to the bedroom, where firemen found her body, which had been almost decapitated.

After killing his mother young Racine set fire to the bed in the chamber, went into the dining room and, standing in front of the sideboard, slashed his throat. He died in a very short time. The father of the boy was at work at the time.

PASSES AWAY AT AGE OF 94 YEARS

Mrs. Rose McLaughlin is Claimed by Death at Decatur.

WAS WIDELY KNOWN

Decatur, Ind., Jan. 8.—Mrs. Rose McLaughlin, for many years a resident of this city, died at 11 o'clock this morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John S. Colchin, at the advanced age of 94 years. Death followed an illness of seven months. She was the widow of William McLaughlin.

Mrs. McLaughlin was born in Antrim county, Ireland, and emigrated to America in 1850, living first in New York and then in Cincinnati, where she was united in marriage in 1861 to William McLaughlin. They came to Decatur in 1884, and Mrs. McLaughlin was widely and favorably known. Her birthday fell on St. Patrick's day, and it had been the aged woman's custom for many years to receive a large number of callers on that anniversary. Surviving relatives include the daughter, Mrs. Colchin, several nieces, including Miss Jennie McMullen, in Chicago, and Mrs. John Daily and Mrs. Frank McBenett, of Fort Wayne. A grandson, Herbert Colchin, died some years ago, and the aged woman was an aunt of the late James and John McMullen, of Fort Wayne.

To the trip to America aboard an old sailing vessel the craft on which she set sail from Ireland was wrecked. Another passenger on the ship was William McLaughlin, and it was largely through his efforts in stilling panic which followed that many lives were saved. The acquaintance begun at that time ripened into love, and later at Cincinnati they were married.

DELAHUNTY.

Edmund Delahanty, aged 71 years, of Elmwood, N. Y., died Sunday evening at 7:10 o'clock, at the home of his sister, Mrs. Ellen Betz, 627 Riverfront avenue. Death was due to dropsical complications, following an illness since last September. Mr. Delahanty had been a frequent visitor to Fort Wayne, during the past several years, and came here last July for a visit. He was to have returned home in September, but was taken seriously ill and was unable to leave.

The deceased was born in Ireland, May 1, 1841, and on coming to this country located in New York, where he engaged in farm work, which he continued until a few years ago when he retired. He is survived by one sister, Mrs. Ellen Betz, of this city, and a number of nieces and nephews, among them being Rev. R. D. Markey, of Berlin. His wife and all of his children preceded him in death. The deceased was a devout Catholic.

SHEPHERD.

Mrs. George Shepherd, of Fort Wayne, died Saturday afternoon at the home of her sister, Mrs. Isaac Keller, near Bronson, Mich., where she had been visiting for the past eight weeks.

The deceased was 48 years of age, and had been a resident of Fort Wayne for the past ten years. She had been an invalid for the past year, but her condition was not regarded as critical, and her death came as a shock to relatives and friends. She is survived by the husband and one son, George Shepherd, both of Fort Wayne, and several sisters and brothers. The husband and son left today for Sturgis, Mich., the former home of the family, where the funeral will take place Wednesday.

BIEDENWEG.

Gottfried Biedenweg, aged 71 years, died Sunday evening at 9:25 at the family residence, 1833 Smith street, following an illness of only one day.

The deceased was born in Germany and came to the United States at an early age, settling in Fort Wayne. He was employed as foreman of the moulding department of the Bass foundry, and had worked there for many years. He is survived by the following children: Mrs. Emma Reinke, of Fort Wayne; Mrs. Martha Dolwich, Cleveland, O.; W. F. and Miss Louise Biedenweg, of this city. His wife preceded him in death two years ago.

Eight grandchildren also survive. Funeral services Wednesday afternoon at 8 o'clock from the residence of the daughter, Mrs. Emma Reinke, 1416 Buchanan street, thence to Zion Lutheran church at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. H. C. Luehr officiating.

MAYLAND.

Henry G. Mayland, aged 52 years, died this morning at 9:15 o'clock at the family residence, 816 Lavina street, of Bright's disease, following an illness of three years' duration. Though he had been ill for three years his death was unexpected. The deceased was formerly employed as a teamster for the Geoske stone yards. He is survived by the widow and four daughters, Clara and Gertrude Mayland and Theda and Velma Heiden, all living at home, one brother, August Mayland, and three sisters, Mrs. Wm. Stahl, Mrs. Fred Roma and Miss Pauline Mayland, all of Fort Wayne, and his aged mother, Mrs. Mary Mayland.

Dammeier, residing five and one half miles southeast of the city on the Decatur road in Adams township, died this morning at 1 o'clock, following an illness of four weeks' duration. IN TRIBUTE TO DEAD ATTORNEY.

usual promise. The young attorney was 20 years of age and was but fairly started in a professional life that was opening up a vista of splendid prospect. He was finely endowed with a likable personality, splendidly equipped mentally and educationally, had acquired many friends and was constantly enlarging the scope of his acquaintance and his friendship.

Mr. Campbell was born August 10, 1885, in Kendallville, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Archy Campbell. The father has been for many years a prominent merchant and banker in that city. The son received his early education in the Kendallville schools and then entered Leland Stanford university, from which he was graduated in 1907. Later he matriculated in the Harvard law school, graduating two years later.

LOCATES IN FORT WAYNE.

Almost at once the young man came to Fort Wayne to embark in the practice of law, associating himself in the office of Judge W. J. Vesey. A little later he was offered and accepted a position as assistant counsel for the Physicians' Defense company, and for some time was associated in this capacity with Judge Sol A. Wood.

A little more than a year ago he associated himself in practice with Judge Walter Olds. This relation was dissolved but a few weeks ago, when Mr. Campbell opened for himself a law office in the Shoff building. He was local counsel for J. D. Mortimer, receiver for the Toledo and Chicago Interurban railway, and with W. L. Taylor, of Indianapolis, looked after the entire legal business of this road.

Candidate for Chairman.

Little more than two weeks ago Mr. Campbell announced his candidacy for the republican chairmanship of the Twelfth district, and had been assured of much support from his friends.

It was while Mr. Campbell was a student at Leland Stanford university that the San Francisco earthquake occurred, and his marriage was the outcome of a romance in which the young student and the young woman who later became his bride were thrown together during the harrowing scenes, and experiences which followed the destruction of the city. His bride was Miss Gertrude Albrecht, a daughter of Mrs. E. L. Albrecht, of San Francisco, and the wedding occurred in that city December 21, 1909. Mr. and Mrs. Campbell came at once to Fort Wayne to reside, and the young couple have been extremely popular in social circles here. Mr. Campbell was a member of Trinity Episcopal church in this city and was elected to the vestry of that congregation but a few weeks ago. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity at Kendallville. Surviving relatives in addition to the young widow are the parents, a younger brother, Donald Campbell, and two sisters, the Misses Josephine and Gertrude Campbell, of Kendallville.

RESOLUTIONS.

At a special meeting of the Allen County Bar association, held on the 8th day of January, 1912, to take suitable action regarding the death of the late William A. Campbell, the following was offered and adopted:

The announcement of the death of William A. Campbell, yesterday morning, came as a shock to his many friends, and especially to the members of the Bar of Allen County, among whom were many of his most intimate friends.

He came among us but a few years ago, but in the short time he has been a member of the Bar of Allen County, he has made and kept many close friendships, and was always proving his loyalty by acts of sympathy and helpfulness.

During his short career he was a consistent example of the best traditions of the bar. He was universally respected for his integrity, his courtesy and remarkable industry, and was commended for the fairness and generosity which characterized all his dealings with his brother lawyers.

Will Campbell's private life was most exemplary. He was an active member of the Episcopal church, his outward life betokened in a true sense, the "inward man," and he was a Christian gentleman. His character was highly esteemed, and his death was a loss, not only to the profession, but to the community at large.

It was further resolved that a copy of the above resolutions be spread on record in the superior and circuit courts of Allen county, and that a copy be transmitted to his family.

EASES OFF AFTER BREAKING RECORD

Sunday's Weather Mark, 19 Below Zero, Followed by Steady Rise.

WITH A SNOWFALL.

Steadily rising temperature has followed the star meteorological performance on Sunday morning when the official thermometers in the Fort Wayne station of the United States weather bureau showed a reading of 14 degrees below zero. Since 1 o'clock this morning, when the reading was zero, there has been a gradual moderation until at noon today the record was 18 degrees above, and by comparison with the readings of the past few days this seems almost balmy.

The phenomenal fall in the temperature started at midnight Saturday night, when, with a reading of three degrees below zero, the fall carried it down to 14 degrees below at 6 o'clock Sunday morning, and this continued for two hours in the face of bright sunshine before the chill began to give way. At noon Sunday the reading was 2 degrees below zero, and it did not rise above the zero mark during the entire day. With the moderation in temperature today, however, came a snowfall of approximately two inches.

Coldest in Fifteen Years.

Sunday's record is believed to have been the coldest recorded in Fort Wayne in fifteen years. Unofficial records show that on Feb. 8, 1890, the reading was 19 below, and that on Feb. 14, 1905, a mark of 18 below was reached. The severe cold was attended by considerable suffering, and heads of charitable organizations say that applications for assistance have been steadily growing heavier during the past few days.

The extreme conditions Sunday wrought heavy damage to the telephone and telegraph companies by the snapping of wires, and a good portion of the long distance lines out of Fort Wayne were out of service Sunday.

Freezing and bursting water pipes and water meters have been reported from every section of the city, and in countless instances heating plants have been inadequate to keep residences, business houses and factories comfortable.

The weather prediction is for continued cold, but it is not probable that the temperature will again go down to Sunday's mark.

POLICE PICK UP AND RESCUE TWO

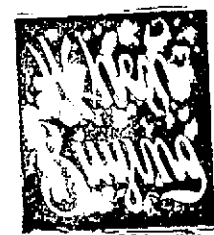

Were Sleeping Off Jags In Temperature Below the Zero Mark.

John Courdevy and George Buckles can thank the police that they are not frozen to death as both were engaged in the dangerous pastime of sleeping off their Saturday night jags in the open air with the thermometer on a ramp and well below the zero mark when they were picked up and carted to the police station.

They were plain down and out drunks and after the judge had pointed out to both of them in the city court this morning that they came near being carried over the brink of eternity by strong drink, he let them go with a warning to forsake the cup.

Samuel Kisser and Richard Mornen came over Saturday night from Ohio on a traction car and on the way they consumed some road house whisky. They were in a fighting mood, but Patrolman Shaugnessy took that out of them. The former was fined $1 and costs, and the latter was let go. Jones Fry, who started on a rampage Saturday night and chased everybody out of his house and offered to kick City Fireman William Wagner, was let go under an indefinite continuance. He has a family dependent upon him.

James Schwartz and William Duffy, who spent their money for drink, and then applied at police headquarters for lodging, were sent over for eleven days each. William Nelson, plain drunk, was let go.

EVIDENCE RULED FROM THE RECORD

Important Testimony in the Beef Trust Trial Held Incompetent.

GIVEN IN BY PRATT

Chicago, Jan. 8.—United States District Judge George A. Carpenter today said he would rule out of the record in the trial of the ten Chicago packers the testimony of Jerome H. Pratt, identifying the hand writing of J. Ogden Armour and Thomas J. Corners on certain letters introduced in evidence by the government. The writing of Arthur Meeker, another defendant, on one of the letters in question, which was positively identified by Mr. Pratt, will, it is believed, be allowed to remain in the record.

Pratt, who was formerly connected with the dressed beef department of Armour & Co., testified that he wrote three letters giving the record of the week's business and mailed them to the defendants named. Later they were returned to him containing figures in pencil indicating the firm's percentage of shipments and profit margins for the current, as agreed on at the Tuesday afternoon meetings of the packers.

"Only one of these letters has been positively identified by the witness, Pratt, as being in the handwriting of these defendants," said the court. "In regard to the other two letters, the witness does not swear whose hand wrote it. He has an opinion who wrote the figures but that opinion was obtained in the ordinary course of business."

After the opinion of the court had been given, Mr. Pratt was recalled to the stand and questioned by District Attorney Wilkerson.

BRYAN UTTERS A MEANING THREAT

Washington, Jan. 8.—The lie was passed in the democratic national committee late today and Wm. Jennings Bryan made a threat to "appeal to the people" if overridden by the committee in his light to unseat Col. James M. Guffey, the national committeeman from Pennsylvania. This threat, coming immediately after the Bryan-Lafollette conference of yesterday, renewed gossip as to the possibility of a third party.

Col. Guffey hurled the charge of "liar" at Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer, who is contesting his seat. The latter replied that he had spoken the truth and that only Guffey's age prevented him from making a personal matter of the affair.

FOUR DEATHS A MYSTERY.

Philadelphia Police Get No Solution of the Riddle.

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 8.—Investigation have failed to solve the riddle as to how the four persons found dead in a north Twenty-fourth street house in this city yesterday, died. The dead:

Mrs. Bridget Flanagan, 36 years old; her daughter, Annie, 10 years; an adopted child, 15 months old, and Catherine Murray, 18 years old. Mrs. Hannah Corran and her daughter, who were taken ill during Saturday night, are recovering. The police are searching for Flanagan, husband of the dead woman. He disappeared from his home about ten days ago and no trace of him has been found. The police do not suspect him of having any knowledge of the affair, but desire to examine him nevertheless. It is believed by the police and coroner that poison in the milk that formed part of Saturday evening's meal, caused the deaths.

CITY BREVITIES

STRIKE PUTS BIG KINK IN CONGRESS

Stenographers Walk Out and Lawmaking Comes to Standstill.

PAY WAS CUT DOWN

Washington, Jan. 8.—For the first time in the history of the government a labor strike held up the machinery of congressional legislation today. The house committee stenographers refused to work because the accounts committee reduced their compensation from 25 to 15 cents a folio. The sugar trust investigating committee had to adjourn until tomorrow.

The committee on accounts which has been following out the house democratic program of economy immediately began to arbitrate with the stenographers.

Dr. W. H. Wiley, the pure food expert, had been summoned from the department of agriculture to elucidate the No. 10 Dutch Standard clause of the sugar tariff. He came armed with a polariscope which he set up before the committee and was reinforced by two assistants. The full committee was in attendance, and a full score of witnesses, sugar experts, sugar refiners, beet sugar growers and Michigan farmers were waiting to be called.

The stenographers "out" are extras employed to help the regular salaried committee reporters. The reduction of pay would save about $5,000. Chairman Lloyd, of the accounts committee said, that if the regular reporters interfered they would be dismissed.

LA FOLLETTE MET BRYAN AT TRAIN

Conference Between Them
at Washington Causes
Speculation.

THIRD PARTY RUMOR

Washington, Jan. 8.—Colonel William J. Bryan, of Nebraska, and Senator Robert M. LaFollette, of Wisconsin, had a conference at the Union station last night upon their joint arrival in the city, the former from the south and the latter from the west. The meeting between the three-time presidential candidate of the Democratic party and the progressive republican, who is seeking to wrest the republican nomination from President Taft, was said to be accidental. No sooner was it known that the progressive leaders of the two parties had come together than tongues began to wag and third party talk flew thick and fast about the hotel corridors. It was not wholly confined to members of the democratic national committee, who were gathering for the meeting tomorrow. Republicans, too, showed a lively interest.

Blocked by Wreck.
All day the democratic committeemen had been seeking methods of dealing with the several perplexing questions scheduled to come up at today's meeting, but nearly every possible solution advanced seemed to depend upon the probable attitude of the Nebraska leader. Progress was slow because of the general desire to consult Mr. Bryan, and his arrival, scheduled for 4 p. m., was awaited with great impatience. Finally it was learned that his train had been blocked by a wreck, and was two hours late.

Shortly before 8 o'clock the Nebraska train arrived. Many prominent democratic leaders were at the station. After handshaking all around, Mr. Bryan sighted Senator LaFollette, or, to be exact, they seemed to sight each other at about the same time. They rushed toward each other and shook hands, and then lost no time in withdrawing a short distance from the crowd. They sat down on a bench and conversed with evident earnestness for several minutes.

Denies Planning Meeting.
"What's being pulled off?" was the question the waiting democrats seemed to be asking each other as they watched the two men.

When Mr. Bryan and the senator parted there was another show of good feeling. Mr. Bryan then explained tersely that Senator LaFollette and he had talked about the resolution pending in congress providing for the election of senators by popular vote. Senator LaFollette gave the same explanation by telephone, but in the minds of some there remained a little skepticism.

It was reported that Senator LaFollette had gone to the station to meet Mr. Bryan. When telephoned about this report the senator said that the meeting was purely accidental, resulting from the fact that their trains happened to get in at the same hour.

"We only talked about the direct elections resolution," said the senator. "We are both deeply interested in the subject and Colonel Bryan agrees with me that the resolution should be passed."

Rejects All Queries.
Colonel Bryan drove from the station to the home of C. T. Brite, his closest friend in Washington. He declined to talk about any of the problems the national committee will have to solve. It was evident that he wanted to get his bearings before plunging into what promises to be a stirring gathering.

After removing travel stains Colonel Bryan drove to the hotel apartment of Norman E. Mack, chairman of the national committee. The colonel dined with Chairman Mack.

At the hotel Mr. Bryan was met by a large number of newspaper men. He was asked questions in every conceivable form, but he would not discuss candidates, contests, presidential primaries, or any of the matters pending before the committee. He would not talk of the letter said to have been written by Woodrow Wilson a few years ago urging the party to itself of the Nebraska, but he was affable as ever as he edged away from the persistent group and slipped into the elevator which carried him to Mack's apartment.

When given as soon as the croupy cough appears Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will ward off an attack of croup and prevent all danger and cause of anxiety. Thousands of mothers use it successfully. Sold by all dealers.

GREEKS OBSERVE CHRISTMAS.

Fort Wayne Colony Clings to Custom of Native Land.

Greeks in Fort Wayne united Sunday in the celebration of the Greek Christmas, which comes some thirteen days later than the Christmas holiday celebrated in America and other Christian nations of the world.

There was a big gathering of the local Greek colony at the home of Christ Pavlos, 1115 Barry street, where the day was spent in festivities. No orthodox Greek will work on Christmas day. Instead he attires himself in new clothing and devotes the occasion to feasting and song. There is no exchange of presents among the Greeks on Christmas day, that feature being deferred until New Year, which will be observed next Sunday.

AS TO AN INEBRIATE FARM.

Elsewhere on this page we give space to a letter from Dr. C. R. Clarke, of Auburn, in which sharp issue is taken with this newspaper's proposal that Fort Wayne and Allen county procure and maintain a farm for the care of drunkards. Dr. Clarke does not conceive there is either wisdom or humanity in taking care of these unfortunates so long as the business of making drunkards goes on. That may be a sound answer to the abstract question, but it does not go far to solve the problem of realities, which are immediate and acute. What the Sentinel has urged and still urges is that some better means be found for caring for the unfortunate victims of confirmed alcoholic disease than sending them to jail. There is no immediate way by which the cause of drunkenness and chronic alcoholism is going to be wiped out. There is an immediate and practicable way by which unfortunate men may be more humanely dealt with. The Sentinel need not assert its position on the drink evil. It is well known. But because the cause of drunkenness endures is no reason that no effort should be made to lift up unfortunates and put them on their feet. To this newspaper it has seemed that among possible measures of practical value to that end, the farm in many ways offers the best hope of restoring alcoholic victims to health, strength, a willingness to work and to self-respect and self-control. The Sentinel's correspondent-editor evidently is not an old or constant reader of this page, else he would know that for a dozen years this newspaper has urged with great frequency and emphasis the enactment of a law by which drunkards, wife-beaters and wife-deserters could be kept at penal employment at a wage sufficient to pay their keep and leave something for the support of their families. Within the past year this column has devoted much space to commend and urge a system by which all city and county prisoners may be profitably employed upon the streets and highways. The Sentinel sadly realizes that, however much it would, it cannot suppress the liquor traffic; but it does feel hopeful of finally being able to do something to help the worst of the victims of it and restore them to manhood and usefulness.

DEMOCRATS HAVE A SITUATION.

Just at the moment Washington is the storm center of democratic politics. The metaphor is used advisedly. Mr. Bryan is there. Mr. Underwood is there. Governor Wilson is there. Champ Clark is there. If William Randolph Hearst is not, great is the pity. The national democratic committee is there, also, and on business. Of course such a gathering is a great irritation to the inventive genius of correspondents, but it is evident that the situation is furnishing quite a deal of real news. It appears, for instance, that letters Governor Wilson in the long ago wrote about Mr. Bryan and Mr. Bryan's kind of democracy are going to be flung in the teeth of the Jersey executive by supporters of Governor Harmon who, as circumstantially related, has more recently fared unhappily from the Princetonian's trenchant pen. Mr. Bryan perhaps is not worrying so much about his interest in this affair as about the way Mr. Underwood is or is not going to bulk. It is a mere inference that Mr. Bryan has grown cold to Champ Clark by reason of the speaker's support of Mr. Underwood in the latter's recent controversy with Mr. Bryan, but even an inference may be a verity and this one perhaps is. The big banquet tonight will see much enthusiasm and harmony of spirit, but the situation has a seamy inside that must chafe some.

The faithful fiancée of Rev. Richeson probably feels very much towards him as Sam Gompers felt toward the McNamara boys immediately after the shock. Richeson might very well have spared his sweetheart the embarrassment her devotion has subjected her to by an earlier confession.

Two issues of Harper's Weekly with no mention of Woodrow Wilson is assumed by some to be prima facie evidence that Colonel Harvey has dropped his Jersey friend and is looking about to pick a new choice for the democratic nomination.

Senator LaFollette somehow seems to have slighted his Indiana friends a bit by using this state to "taper off" his campaign in. There is an insurgent or so, however, to whom the incident seems to be merciful.

Nice early and perfect ice crop ready to harvest. Now what do you suppose that will get you? Guess again, please.

TAKES ISSUE WITH THE SENTINEL.

Editor of The Sentinel: In answer to your editorial, "A Plan Worth Trying," in the January 4 issue of The Fort Wayne Sentinel, I would like to question the soundness of your logic and advisability of your plan.

It can not be denied that a drunkard is a diseased man, and his case ought to be treated accordingly. When a doctor is called to treat a case his first problem is to discover the cause, both immediate and remote. Proper treatment follows as nearly as the ability of the physician will permit. The condition of a drunkard is and can be brought about in but one way, and it certainly is not unknown to the gentleman who wrote the editorial. The cause is known, but why can not the problem be solved and the case properly treated? Is it because there are too many sick men in Fort Wayne? If so, would it be advisable and even possible to obtain a farm large enough in Allen county to treat the cases? I presume the plan you have in mind is to classify drunkards and treat only those cases utterly doomed, and allow all the rest to develop into that stage before treatment. Can you not see that your plan would be a complete failure and only a means of transferring costs from the city of Fort Wayne to Allen county? Why not observe the cause and proceed to its elimination? If Fort Wayne is able to do this, why doesn't she do it, and if she isn't able to do it, what is the matter with Fort Wayne?

Fort Wayne needs new paved streets as well as a great many more improvements. Why not take every case of drunkenness and put him at this work with a long sentence. Give him money dollar per day and board. Put the money in the bank for support of mothers, children and themselves after they have finished their sentence. Cure these men in the presence of temptation and their environment. I only advocate this plan in cases where a city or state can not break loose from the bondage of the liquor traffic. Fort Wayne and Indiana come under this condition.

Fort Wayne wants drunkards, and she wants the conditions which make drunkards. She never loses an opportunity to make it known, and gives her support to those who keep her in that condition.

If you must have saloons in Fort Wayne, control them so that drunkards are not produced, and your problem is solved. I contend drunkards do not have to be produced in Fort Wayne, but you will have to change conditions there. Editorials which will suggest some plan to keep from making drunkards will be a better "Plan Worth Trying" than a plan to take care of them after they are made.

Very respectfully,

C. B. CLARKE.

LEARN A TRADE.

(Dayton Journal.)

A recent interview with the manager of a national employment exchange in New York city, wherein it was stated that New York is overrun with men seeking clerical positions, carries a lesson not only for the young men of the metropolis, but for those of the entire nation as well.

Too many young men have forgotten the real dignity of labor—of getting down to hard work in shirt sleeves and overalls and doing things worth while with the hands. The trades have been slighted; everybody is looking for a position where he can work, wearing a white collar and cuffs and his best clothes.

The same wish has taken the young men from the farms and in a greater or lesser degree from the shops and factories. The result is that the clerical positions are so well filled that only meager salaries are required to entice men into the office; wage scales in factories and on farms have advanced while "salaries" paid the office beginner are almost nil.

The authority quoted in the interview is Edward W. Carpenter, whose position in New York gives him the right to speak with authority. He interviews hundreds of applicants every day, and of that number, he declares, a majority of the men are seeking office positions—places where they can work "dressed up," no matter what the wage in the beginning.

He declares that in consequence of the over-demand for clerical positions, firms can get clerks for as low as $3 per week and seldom are required to pay more than $10. He adds:

"The kid-glove jobs are overrun, but not enough men can be found for the trades. Yet the average trade worker is better off in health and money than the average clerk."

Mr. Carpenter then has something to say about "kid-glove jobs" as compared with jobs in the factory, the shop and the farm. There is a dearth of good laborers in all fields. Hundreds can be found who have a smattering of knowledge about this end or that of any trade, but the skilled mechanics that are to be found in any foreign country, especially Germany and England, are conspicuous by their absence. The real true mechanic is hard to find. But of clerks there is an overabundance, which is steadily decreasing the prices for this kind of labor.

This same rule applies to the farm. Hundreds of young men whom nature intended to be farmers have drifted into the cities and by accepting jobs that call for no particular training or skill, filled the market for this class to the overburdening point. The result is that the unskilled man of the city who has not learned a trade is forced to compete with them, to the profit of the employer and the corresponding loss of the laborer.

The antidote for this condition is plain: Young men, learn a trade and become so proficient in it that the shops and factories must have you at any price. Then let the other fellow have the "kid-glove" jobs at whatever price he can command.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

What the Sentinel Had to Say About Persons and Events Twenty-Five Years Ago.

Will Friend, the clever comedian, is in the city on a brief visit.

Mr. Edmund Randall, the jail missionary, is doing much good here at present. The new gas well on Hanna street, near the old stock yards, is down 135 feet.

The next attraction at the Temple will be Miss Maggie Mitchell in "Fanchon, the Cricket."

Justin McCarthy, the great Irish home ruler, will lecture at Library hall January 27.

The guests of the Shoaff house, on East Berry street, are organizing a sleighing party.

Elliott H. Underhill, an ex-mail-carrier of this city, will be appointed engraving clerk of the house under Captain Rawles.

The mercury reached 19 degrees below zero at 4 o'clock this morning, and at 7 o'clock hovered between 12 and 15 degrees below.

This morning at 6 o'clock the wedding of George A. Markey, clerk in the Nickel

Plate freight office, to Miss Ella Wyatt, took place at the Cathedral. Marriage licenses: David W. Brouthers and Etta V. Shank, George A. Markey and Ella Wyatt, John L. Gebert and Mary Narchman, Martin Fuchshuber and Margaret Kaiser.

Dr. James J. Bowker, of LaOtto, was elected to represent the national convention at Cincinnati in February, to create a new political party.

It is welcome news to record that Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Olds will again reside in Fort Wayne. Mr. Olds is now with the Fort Wayne Jockey Electric Light company, and his return will complete the reorganization of the far-famed Haydn quartet.

The marriage of Samuel S. Fisher, of the firm of Fisher Bros., in this city, and Miss Flora Reinhard, of Indianapolis, Wednesday, was a very fashionable affair. Mr. and Mrs. Fisher are now making a tour of the eastern cities and later will be at home in this city.

They pass upon all loans, and any one familiar with the business of the country bank knows what this involves. The country bank furnishes the bulk of the money to carry on farming operations, and the cashier must know the condition of the cotton crop and prospective yield and a variety of other details regarding the affairs of the farmer seeking loans to tide him through the season. While ordinary farm loans are considered good, so much depends upon the condition of the applicant's crop and the possibilities of failure in cotton or other products that great caution has to be exercised.

Miss Hester taught school after finishing her education, and then took up stenography. After working for a law firm in Lexington, she became court reporter. In January, 1908, she went to the Citizens' State bank of Giddings, where she remained a year, and was then offered a clerical position in the bank with which she is now connected. She was advanced rapidly to cashier. Miss Hester has a fund of information regarding the affairs of the farmers of the surrounding country. She knows just how Nature's Way Is The Best.

Buried deep in our American forest we find bloodroot, queen's root, man-drake and stone root, golden seal, Oregon grape root and cherrybark. Of these Dr. R. V. Pierce made a pure glyceric extract which has been favorably known for over forty years. He called it "Golden Medical Discovery."

This "Discovery" purifies the blood and tones up the stomach and the entire system in Nature's own way. It's just the tissue builder and tonic you require when recovering from a hard cold, grip, or pneumonia. No matter how strong the constitution the stomach is apt to be "out of kilter" at times; in consequence the blood is disordered, for the stomach is the laboratory for the constant manufacture of blood. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery strengthens the stomach—puts it in shape to make pure, rich blood—helps the liver and kidneys to expel the poisons from the body. The weak, nervous, run-down, debilitated condition which so many people experience at this time of the year is usually the effect of poisons in the blood; it is often indicated by pimples or boils appearing on the skin, the face becomes thin—you feel "blue."

"More than a week ago I was suffering with an awful cold in my head, throat, breast, and body," writes M. A. James G. Kent, of 710 L. Street, S. E., Washington, D. C. "Some called it La Grippe, some pneumonia. I was advised by a friend to try a bottle of your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I tried a bottle and it did me so much good that I feel safe in saying it is the greatest and best medicine that I ever took. My health is much better than it was before using your medicine. It does all you claim for it and is satisfactory."

In the war with Tripoli which was really a fight against the pirates of the Barbary States who were constantly making depredations on American commerce, Chauncey bore a distinguished part, especially in the brilliant operations against Tripoli in 1804. As a result, he was appointed a captain in 1805.

By the time of the War of 1812, Chauncey had risen to the rank of commodore, and in the effort of the Americans to secure naval supremacy on the great lakes, he left his position in command of the navy yard in New York to take command on all the lakes except Champlain. If Dreams Come True.

If dreams came true
What should we do?
Well, I for one
Would have some fun
And do small hurt
Parading in my undershirt.

And now and then
I'd startle men,
By swirling high
Up in the sky
In pleasant weather,
A-kicking my two heels together.

Then possibly
You'd see poor me
Stand on my toes
On some one's nose
And there recite
The "Curfew Shall Not Ring To-night."

And there's no doubt
Some evening out
You'd see me stir
Some theater
By going there
Arrayed in my pajamas' fair.

Upon the whole, 'twixt me and you,
'Tis well our dreams don't all come true.

PREACHED IN TWO CHURCHES

Rev. James F. Irwin, of Brooklyn, Greeted by Large Congregations.

CLERGY ENTERTAINED

Rev. James F. Irwin, of Brooklyn, who is spending a few days in the city the guest of Dr. Edward J. McOscar, delivered sermons in two Fort Wayne churches Sunday morning and was greeted by large congregations. He was celebrant of the 8 o'clock mass at the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception and gave an excellent sermon on the gospel of the day, "The Finding of Christ in the Temple." Inasmuch as Saturday was the Feast of the Epiphany, frequently called Little Christmas and commemorative of the visit of the Magi to the Babe of Bethlehem, the gifted speaker touched upon the feast and its significance.

At 10 o'clock Rev. Paul Welch celebrated high mass at St. Patrick's church and Father Irwin delivered the sermon. It was an eloquent and thoughtful discourse on "The Authority of the Catholic Church," and he was heard with intense interest. Basing his sermon on the text, "He Was Daily Teaching in the Temple," St. Luke, 10:47.

Father Irwin is a speaker of marked ability and both in the pulpit and on the platform receives close and undivided attention from his auditors. He is first assistant in St. Cecilia's parish, Brooklyn, of which Rt. Rev. Mgr. Edward J. McGrick is rector. This parish is one of the largest in the City of Churches and four priests are kept busy with its many duties. It numbers about 2,500 families or approximately 13,000 souls. Twenty-four thousand children are enrolled in the parochial schools. Besides his parish duties Father Irwin is editor of "The Tablet," Brooklyn's Catholic weekly paper, and also "The Cecilian Messenger," one of the ablest parish monthlies in the country. He has traveled extensively and his latest illustrated lecture, "Lourdes," has been heard in cities during the past season.

On Sunday evening Dr. Edward J. McOscar entertained at his home, 120 West Jefferson street, in honor of Father Irwin and it was the occasion of a most happy social gathering of the clergy. Rt. Rev. Bishop Herman J. Alerding, Rt. Mgr. John H. Oechtering, Rev. John R. Quinlan, Rev. Joseph P. Delaney, Rev. Charles H. Thiele, Rev. H. J. Joseph Kroll, Rev. John A. McCarthy, Rev. Francis A. Gribbs, Rev. Michael Aebinger, Bart McCarthy, of Fort Wayne, and Rev. John P. Noll, of Huntington, were present.

REV. J. F. VICHERT

Will Leave to Accept Eastern Pastorate January 31.

The announcement was made at the Sunday services at the First Baptist church of the acceptance by Rev. J. F. Vichert, the pastor, of the call extended to him to become pastor of the First Baptist church at Providence, R. I. His resignation as pastor of the church here goes into effect on January 31. The formal resignation and its acceptance by the trustees were read at the Sunday services. The board expressed its high appreciation of the work of Dr. Vichert while pastor here and the regret of the congregation at his leaving.

How Miss Dwyer, the Star, Gained by Loss of Comrade.

With the retirement of Eleanor Robson, now Mrs. August Belmont, from the stage, many theater-goers wondered what course of action, Miss Ada Dwyer, Miss Robson's constant associate, would pursue. Ever since Miss Robson became a star, Miss Dwyer has been the leading female member of her company, save for a short time when one of Miss Robson's plays had no part for her, and Miss Dwyer went to Australia to create there the title role in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch."

Upon her return to America, moreover, she entered into a new contract with her managers, one of several years' duration. While Miss Dwyer will naturally feel the loss of Miss Robson's constant companionship, there can be no question that she will no longer feel obliged to take the parts best suited to her in the plays selected for her friend, but in having the entire thirty productions of Liebler & Co. to choose from, Miss Dwyer will find wider scope for her abilities.

Her first part under her new contract was the one she is now playing in the production of "The Deep Purple," the successful play by Paul Armstrong and Wilson Mizner that is coming to the Majestic this evening. The part is that of Frisco Kate, ex-chief and shop-lifter, trying to live "straight," but at the mercy of her old-time associates who know her record. The part is one that appeals to the character actress, and her success in it has been great.

MISS DOROTHY DALTON

Comes in "The Girl from Rector's" Next Thursday.

Miss Dorothy Dalton is one of the most attractive personalities of the theater of this day. Her beauty being matchless, her deportment aristocratic, as becomes the character of "The Girl" without any suggestion of the affected, yet so in keeping with the general tone of levity that her interpretation very nearly approaches the perfection of the satirical in art. Her methods are expressive of extreme delicacy, directed by an unerring artistic intelligence to the good of their purpose, which command a respect that urges applause, tempered by a finely appreciative discernment in spite of its apparently boisterous enthusiasm.

"The Girl from Rector's" will be at the Majestic theater next Thursday night.

Ward and Vokes. What is declared to be one of the greatest laughing hits of this or any other season is the big musical comedy, "Trouble Makers," a satire on the suffragette question, in which Ward and Vokes, assisted by Lucy Daly and a company of fifty will appear at the Majestic Friday and Saturday. Ward and Vokes will not play trumps as heretofore, but will first come on the scene as stranded actors; later they appear as suffragettes and no fancier sight can be imagined than these talented farceurs in feminine attire declaiming and contending for the rights of women to vote and go on the police force. Not only are they entertaining to the extreme, but they cause many complications to follow. The libretto is studied with gems that delight the music loving public. Songs of love, songs of sentiment, songs of a comical nature and songs that parody the topics of the day. The evolutions, the dances and the figuring and the posing of the company is something new in plays of this description.

SON'S DEATH HASTENS MOTHER'S.

Word was received in this city Saturday of the death of Mrs. Mathilde Rastetter, which occurred December 26, 1911, at her home in Karlsruhe, Baden, Germany. The deceased was 69 years of age and was the mother of Carl Rastetter, the Fort Wayne druggist, whose death occurred recently. Mrs. Rastetter had been in poor health for some time and it is thought that news of the death of her son hastened her own death.

It is highly dangerous, to say the least of it, to come out of the heated atmosphere of a theater or private house, as so many of us do, and go into the cold night air, or stand in a draught while a taxi cab or car is being hailed, without being sufficiently clad.

Thus too dangerous a wrap should be avoided for winter use, and something warmer and more substantial should be worn.

For this reason, therefore, one cannot improve on velvet as a material to make our evening wraps of, and this is equally successful in a dark color, such as black bordered with white, old blue with sable or maroon, and geranium, corse pink or scarlet with black fox or skunk, which are among a variety of combinations which contrast admirably, and should be selected with a view of best suiting the coloring of the wearer.

BEFORE AND AFTER.

GERMANIAS HAVE THE BEST OF IT

Lead League and Play the Cellar Champs in Next Contest.

RECORDS OF LEAGUE ALL TREATED ALIKE

In the schedule for the present week the Germania live, of the Fort Wayne Bowling association, has a bit the best of it, as it is slated to meet the Zurbuch Coal company squad, cellar champs of the organization.

This club is right at the top of the heap and has a margin of three games over the Wolf & Dessauer men. The latter has the Eclipse on its card this week and since this team has been reorganized it is giving little to the best of them, and if the department store bowlers advance they will have to go some.

Records at the close of last week show Will Doehman out in front with 53.1 Jankensider less than a full point behind him. George Harkender is crowding him and the race is getting pretty warm as there are half a dozen or more men in position to take top honors in the individual race. The averages are as follows:

LEAGUE TO HAVE EVERYBODY WILL HAVE TO PUT UP MONEY AT THE NEXT MEETING.

Put Up Money at the Next Meeting.

RECORDS OF LEAGUE ALL TREATED ALIKE

Writing for the South Bend Tribune after the meeting of the national commission and national association at Cincinnati last week (Ludolph H. Horst, one of the best of the Central league sport writers, has this to say of the $2,000 deposit rule:

"When the Central league begins its 1912 season President Carson will hold $2,000 in certified checks guaranteeing that every club will go through the season without a break. This will be the largest aggregate sum ever deposited for a like purpose by any minor league in the country.

"The posting of the certified checks is the result of dilatory tactics of two or three of the Central clubs in failing in 1911 to meet their obligations promptly and which made it necessary for President Carson to use his own money in financing the league.

"The situation at Wheeling is to be carefully threshed out at the Grand Rapids meeting and the Messrs. Irwin, Perkins & Co., forced to explain just what they intend to do with their franchise. It was announced here that the club was on the market for $5,000, but as there is no even a nucleus for a team left out of the remnants of the 1911 club the price is considered exorbitant. The opinion is general among the Central club owners that the present (Wheeling) directorate, although composed of men whose word will run close to a million dollars, can not make a success in the national game and that it will be for the interest of the league if a change of ownership is brought about.

"That the game is now truly established upon a paying basis at Dayton is an assured fact, Lewis Wehner, president of the Dayton club, having completed all arrangements for a model park, one which will surpass any minor league baseball field in use at the present time. The stadium, for such it will be called, will not be completed until 1913. In the meantime a park for temporary use will be fitted up nearer the center of the city. Fairview, where all games have been played since Dayton has been in the Central league.

"Conditions at South Bend appear unusually favorable to the Central league directors, who are confident that the business men's organization will make the city one of the best towns on the circuit. Those magnates who last fall opposed the sale of the Newark franchise to Carson's home city, are now pulling for the town's success. Owner Varnell, of Fort Wayne, looks for a revival of the 1910 rivalry and predicts that South Bend will add to its record for big crowds when he sends his team to the St. Joseph valley. Varnell also reports Fort Wayne to be in excellent shape for the coming season. Bert Annis, of Grand Rapids, and A. W. Wagner, of Terre Haute, are also optimistic in regard to the outlook for their respective cities.

GETS HIS PRICE AND AGREES TO FIGHT PUEBLO FIREMAN WOLCAST RICHEST LIGHT WEIGHT

JACK JOHNSON.

Jack Johnson got his price and agreed to fight Jim Flynn. He didn't get a straight guarantee for all of the $30,000 he demanded at the start, but he has a cut on all the money that will be taken in if the men get together and he has figured out that he can do as well under a contract of this kind.

THIEME IN GOOD FORM

In a match game with Huntington's best quintet of bowlers the Metropolitan team showed a clean pair of heels yesterday and took three games in a row, running better than a thousand in the last game when all of the local oil spillers crowded on a head of steam.

ODDS AND ENDS OF SPORTING NEWS

W. H. Watkins wants to put a team in at Newark and place the city back in the Ohio State league where it belongs. Arnold Hauser, the young Cardinal shortstop, who had such a good record last year and who was kicking over the traces because he could not get a raise from Roger Bresnahan, has sent in his signed contract for next year.

Johnny Powers, the owner of the Danville, Ill. club, who is spending the winter in Los Angeles, says that he is going to dispose of his holdings as soon as he can. Silk O'Loughlin has been appointed a boxing inspector for the western part of the state of New York. The ball players will have more respect for the famous name next year than ever before since he has become a light in the pugilistic game.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 8.—Ad Wolgast is the world's richest lightweight, having earned and saved more money during his "term of office" than any other man who ever pranced along under the 133-pound title.

Battling Nelson "hogged" the lion's share of many big purses and was never a spendthrift, but the Dane was considered an easy mark for the land sharks. Real estate deals ate up the brawler's dollars and he is now "property poor." Instead of being able to drop back into an easy chair and smile at the world, Nelson is forced to hux second and third raters at his late day in his career, accepting sums for his services that in his palmy days would not have paid the boy's training expenses.

Poor old Joe Gans, "Daddy's Bacon Boy," earned several fortunes in the time that intervened between his victory over Frank Erne at Fort Erie on May 12, 1902, and his second defeat at the hands of Nelson in the Colma ring on Sept. 9, 1908, but the money ran through the wonderful mulatto's brown fingers like water and when his untimely end came in Arizona the scant hotel holdings of Joe represented his total assets.

Billy Rothwell, "Young Corbett," ruled the roost from 1901 to 1904, and even after his defeat at the hands of Britt, Nelson and Hanlon, the Denver man continued to grab off the coin.

PURDUE SHORT COURSE OPENS

Many Hundreds of Indiana

Farmers at School of Instruction.

INTEREST VERY KEEN

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 8.—With nearly two thousand Indiana farmers and their wives in attendance, the Purdue Short Course, held annually by the Purdue University School of Agriculture, commenced its sessions this morning. The attendance is a record-breaking one, former years having registered seldom more than a thousand persons. This is undoubtedly due to the multitudinous agricultural attractions arranged for the week, which include the annual sessions of the Indiana Live Stock Breeders' association, Wool Growers' association, State Dairy association, the annual corn show and sessions of the Indiana Corn Growers' association, addresses by such prominent lecturers as President Stone, of Purdue, Prof. W. D. Henderson, of the University of Michigan, and Mrs. Nellie Kedzie Jones, of Auburndale, Wisconsin.

The Short Course students began arriving yesterday afternoon, and comfortable quarters for the week had been assigned everywhere long before the opening classes.

The registration of students in the office of Dean J. H. Skinner shows that nearly every county in the state has contributed to the enormous crowds. Stock judging formed an interesting feature of the live stock work of the opening session. The choice hogs of the Purdue experiment station and the school of agriculture were scored by the Purdue experts and the students shown the proper methods of judging and the points necessary to the make-up of good stock. Judging of corn occupied the entire afternoon for the soils and crops department registrants, and in this connection it is interesting to note that the corn supplied for scoring by Indiana growers is of a much better quality this year than heretofore, due to the persistent educational work of the Corn Growers' association and the Purdue agricultural extension department.

both under the direction of Prof. G. J. Christie.

The various Purdue lectures covered a vast variety of subjects in their opening addresses, but none was probably so pertinent in its application to Indiana farmers as that by Prof. C. G. Woodbury, of the horticultural department, on "The Horticultural Awakening." Prof. Woodbury, it will be remembered, figured prominently in the annuals of the recent apple show at Indianapolis by his advocacy of Indiana as the "leading apple state of the middle west."

Interest is Awake.

"The interest in apple growing," said Prof. Woodbury, "is waking up. There are probably 100 people in Indiana at the present time who are taking good care of their orchards where there were but three or four less than five years ago. There are 500 who are expressing intelligent interest, due to the application of scientific methods, where there were but 25 a few years ago. No longer do Indiana farmers invest their money in the fabulous orchards of the west and northwest, for they have learned that with the freight rates considered the Indiana orchards offer even greater possibilities for profit. This has been true for a long time, but the awakening is but a recent one. Horticulture is really a conservation movement, and those who devote their time to the improvement of soil conditions and a study of climatic effects know that Indiana offers facilities for growing nearly every fruit of the temperate zone.

"This means for the grower of fruits that if he will use up-to-date methods and thus produce a fruit free from blemish, he can make a profit of $250 per acre more than his western brother, sell his fruit much more quickly, and, if he so desires, at a considerable reduction in price."

In commenting upon the management of mature orchards, M. W. Richards, of the horticultural department, took up the various systems of soil management, methods of pruning, spraying and harvesting of the crops.

"But the production of the fruit is only half the battle and the smallest half at that," commented Mr. Richards. "Numerous men can grow fruit, but those who make the profits are the ones who sell it and to sell it attention must be paid to the packing and shipping. This must not be done in a slovenly way."

Tillage is Necessary.

"But the production of the fruit is only half the battle and the smallest half at that," commented Mr. Richards. "Numerous men can grow fruit, but those who make the profits are the ones who sell it and to sell it attention must be paid to the packing and shipping. This must not be done in a slovenly way."

Rye and cowpeas are practicable cover crops from an economic standpoint, according to Mr. Brehm. "Crimson clover is the best of course," he declares, "but satisfactory results will be obtained by the use of numerous other humus-producing crops, and the fruit grower cannot afford to overlook the planting of one or another of these crops."

More Methodist Ministers.

"The average Indiana farmer keeps his chickens too long," stated Prof. A. G. Phillips in discussing Poultry Conditions in Indiana.

"This might be remedied by the increasing of the number of Methodist ministers and their proverbial Sunday dinners at the home of a thoughtful parishioner," laughingly added Mr. Phillips, "but the farmer will make more profit if he disposes of the chickens in a more commercial manner."

Mr. Phillips recently sent out a circular letter to poultry raisers in Indiana, and asked numerous questions regarding their practices. He found that thirty per cent. of the farmers reported poultry raising unprofitable, but it was simply because of improper conditions. Fifty per cent. of the houses were unsatisfactory in construction; 10 per cent. only used the open-front ventilation methods; 55 per cent. have diseased chickens, and were advised how to give proper relief; 5 per cent. only sold the old males at the end of each season, and this fact alone, says Mr. Phillips, shows a grievous misunderstanding on the part of the raiser. "The males should be sold at the end of each year if the best conditions are to be attained," declared the Purdue expert.

Mr. J. E. Dougherty, of the poultry department, discussed various types of poultry houses, recommending the use of the open-front house, in which the curtain front gives plenty of light and warmth under all conditions. The continuous house and the colony house were also described, with the aid of charts. Drop siding or flooring boards were recommended as most satisfactory for the construction of these, although box-boards with bats or roofing paper covering box sections, were stated satisfactory in most sections. For flooring Mr. Dougherty recommended cement and a roofing of shed type as the most practical for use in this state.

Loss Has Been Heavy.

The question of hog cholera has been a most pertinent one to Indiana farmers during the past few seasons, and great interest was shown in the address of Dr. R. A. Craig, veterinarian. "The loss this year from hog cholera has been very heavy," said Dr. Craig "and the farmers are again reminded of the necessity of making an intelligent effort for the control of this disease. Such a heavy loss from disease greatly increases the cost of pork production, and the poor, ultimate consumer must bear a part of it.

Dr. Craig condemned the criminal carelessness of persons owning infected hogs, declaring that the sale of such animals. To the nation's stock yards plays a no small part in the spread of the infection. He also advocated better quarantine laws and a strict enforcement of existing laws.

"It is impossible under the present conditions," concluded the speaker, "to control the spread of hog cholera by the use of anti-hog cholera serum. The results obtained this season were not as good as in previous years. This was due to the difficulty in discriminating between the infected and non-infected animals."

Wisconsin Woman Present.

One of the distinguished speakers of the day was Mrs. Nellie Kedzie Jones, of Auburndale, Wis., an authority on domestic science and household economic matters throughout the United States. She is a delightful speaker, with a personality that is most winning. Her opening talk was on "School Lunches," and she showed the necessity of every child having something hot to eat with the lunch carried to school, which can be accomplished by some care on the part of the teacher in the production of hot chocolate or a kettle of milk soup every day.

The making of various kinds of sandwiches, the simple cake to furnish sweets for the body, the use of fruits, cheese, eggs and some vegetables were all urged, so that the child might have the same wholesome food with as much variety as if enjoying the mid-day meal at home.

Mrs. Jones also showed the necessity of sanitary methods in putting up children's lunches, and outlined the various kinds of supper to be given children after the day in school. "Every child should be left growing," she concluded, "and its food should be selected for that purpose in every instance."

Mrs. Jones will appear on the general program Tuesday evening with her noted address, "The Girl Who Can." This will be heard by the entire Short Course attendance, and will treat the "girl problem" in the manner that has made Mrs. Jones famous as a worker for the welfare of her sex. Another feature of the Tuesday sessions will be the meeting of the Indiana Sheep

Breeders' and Feeders' association, with addresses by several of the noted wool growing experts of the state.

J. F. Szink Falls on Ice and Breaks Arm in Two Places.

The ice harvest is at hand and the Grand Rapids and Indiana company is preparing to put a force of men at work at Nottawa, Mich., from whence comes all the ice used in icing the trains of that road and the Pennsylvania at this point. The big ice houses in the east yards are to be filled as soon as possible and it will require 150 car loads to fill them. The company will also store a quantity of ice at Nottawa. The ice is of excellent quality and about twelve inches thick.

RAY PHILLIPS IS AGENT.
Former Resident Succeeds Harry G. Pinniger.

As stated by the Sentinel a week ago would be the case. A. Ray Phillips has been named as the successor to Harry G. Pinniger as passenger agent of the Lake Shore and the Lake Erie and Western at Fort Wayne. The rumor was confirmed Saturday night by the receipt of an official bulletin from Superintendent M. L. Reynolds. The information was also accompanied by the news that Mr. Phillips would be succeeded as agent at Lansing, Mich., by B. A. Bennett, who in turn will be succeeded as agent at Eaton Rapids by F. D. Laird, of that city, who had been connected in another capacity at the station in that city. Mr. Phillips is quite popular with the patrons of the Lake Shore and Lake Erie and Western and with his Fort Wayne acquaintances in general and his return here is an incident quite pleasing to them. Mr. Phillips is perhaps the youngest man in this part of the country to hold an important position. He has the experience back of other attributes, however, that assure success. Mr. Pinniger, who will be remembered, has received the appointment of claim agent for the New York Central lines in Ohio, with headquarters in Toledo, and he will leave for that city next Thursday to take up the duties of that office. He will leave his family here and

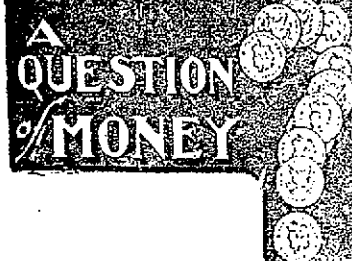

TENEMENT HOUSES

Reveal Many Causes of Consumption.

Inspection of tenement houses in the large cities by the health authorities discloses many of the causes of consumption. Foul air, lack of sunlight and ventilation, poor plumbing, overcrowding and uncleanness, together with a neglect of the minor ailments, are declared to be responsible for the alarming spread of tuberculosis.

Public sentiment is rapidly finding expression in progressive tenement laws, but the matters of personal hygiene are dependent upon the intelligence of the people themselves. If every person would take a dose of virgin oil of pine at the first symptom of a cold or cough, ninety per cent. of the cases of tuberculosis would be prevented. Virgin oil of pine is prepared by the Leach Chemical Company, of Cincinnati, Ohio, and is for sale by all druggists.

It is a well known fact that virgin oil of pine will break up any cold in side of twenty-four hours. Mixed with glycerine and whisky it makes an invaluable household remedy, one of the most reliable safeguards against tuberculosis and pneumonia.

TRIO OF ACCIDENTS.

Two of Them Victims of Snow and Ice.

There were three accidents at the Pennsylvania shops this morning and two of them were due to the cold weather and the ice and snow. J. F. Szink, of the blacksmith shop, had his left arm broken in two places above the wrist, when he fell in passing through the yards south of the Smith shop. Joseph Trite, a laborer at the round house and residing at 2022 Force street, sustained a bad gash in his forehead, which also injured his eyes, when he slipped and fell in a pit. R. Noville, an oiler at the coal docks, slipped as he was trying to put a bolt on a pulley and he was thrown against another pulley, which cut a gash in his head and otherwise injured him. All of these men are now patients at the St. Joseph hospital, where the company's surgeons are attending them.

MANY SALESMEN HERE.

Hustlers Gathering for the Annual Bowser Meeting.

By midnight tonight every salesman entitled to participate in the doings arranged for them by the managers of S. F. Bowser & Company will have arrived in the city and it is said the number will be but little short of 100. The exercises of the week will commence at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning and will continue until Friday, the big banquet at the Anthony taking place Thursday evening. The prizes this year are cash, ranging in amount from $20 to $200, and prize winners are the men who have sold a certain amount of factory products during the year 1911.

WORKED 115 YEARS FOR COMPANY.

Four Employees Whose Aggregate Services Pass Century Mark.

Today marks the anniversary of the birth of four Pennsylvania men whose combined term of service is 115 years. They are Supt. W. M. Wardrop, who got on the pay rolls in 1898; Conductor John Phillips, who began work for the company in 1873; Trainmaster J. F. Patterson, whose services date from 1884; and Agent E. H. Kirkland, who entered the employ of the company in 1880. They exchanged messages of congratulation this morning.

FOWLS RACE WITH TRAIN.

A flock of wild geese and wild ducks raced with a fast passenger train on the Louisville and Nashville road, between Palmyra Island and Clarksville, Tenn., a distance of ten miles, last Saturday, and came out ahead at the Cumberland river bridge, where the fowls evidently became frightened at the sight of the city just beyond the bridge. The geese arose from the backwater at the head of the island and were joined by the ducks a mile further on. The flocks kept just ahead of the train, slackening up when it stopped at Hemitite and Steel's Springs and increased their speed as the train increased its speed. The trainmen discovered the race in the state and notified the passengers and all were interested spectators. At no time were the geese or ducks beyond gunshot distance from the train, but there were no firearms aboard. When the fowls abandoned the race they turned about and started back towards Palmyra Island.

EDISON'S LATEST INVENTION.

Thomas A. Edison, the inventor, has improved the storage battery system so that it is practical on heavy trains and a dispatch from Chicago says that the Illinois Central company will construct three cars equipped with the wizard's latest device in storage batteries and put them into the suburban service at Chicago. Edison attended a dinner in Chicago Friday night, given in his honor, and the following day met the officials of the Illinois Central and their decision concerning the storage battery cars was the result. He assured them that the storage battery has been brought to a stage of perfection which makes it practical in running trains without a third rail or overhead conductors.

DANCE AND PEDRO.

Helpmeet lodge, Ladies' Auxiliary to Anthony lodge, No. 804, R. L. F. and E., will have a dance and pedro party at the hall, corner of Cherry and West Main street, Wednesday evening, January 10. The committees are now at work in preparing for the entertainment and promise their friends who favor their presence a good time.

Yanil Conductor Dennis Hayes, of the Wabash, has recovered from a sickness which kept him from his work several days.

WAS TWENTY-EIGHT YEARS OLD.

Yesterday was the twenty-eighth anniversary of the birth of Victor C. Miller, painter at the Pennsylvania shops, and in honor of the day the Bennett family, of which Mrs. Miller is a member, held a reunion at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Bennett, 2028 South Calhoun street. In addition to the heads of the family there were present Mr. and Mrs. Victor C. Miller and children; Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Bennett and children; Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Bennett and children; Miss Grace Bennett; James E. and George W. Bennett; Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Bendure; Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Shuman and Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Melchior.

MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN.

As previously stated in these columns, Secretary W. S. Whitbeck, of the Railroad Y. M. C. A., will submit a proposition to the board of management at the meeting this evening for a membership campaign in conjunction with the ten other railroad Y. M. C. A. with which the Pennsylvania Base west of Pittsburgh are interested. The membership is now something over 2,200 and it is proposed to raise the number to 4,000 in ten days. Big clocks, similar to the one which was used in raising the building fund for the Y. W. C. A. last summer, will be placed in each of the eleven Railroad-Y. M. C. A. buildings to note the progress of the campaign.

WILL ABANDON GALION.

Next Wednesday, Galion, Ohio, will cease to be a division terminal of the Erie. She will also soon lose about 100 families, the heads of which are employed as trainmen and engineers on the Erie road. The company has constructed better terminals at Marion, O., and has served notice on the train and engineering men to prepare to move to that city. This change will be a severe blow to Galion, which has been the terminal of the Erie ever since that portion of the system was built, under the name of the Atlantic and Great Western.

FIRST TEXTILE CONCERT.

The first of the series of concerts and entertainments to be given Sunday afternoon at the club rooms of the Wayne Knitting mills' employees was given yesterday by the Packard City band. The program contained ten numbers and the entertainment commenced at 5 o'clock and closed at 5. The club rooms were handsomely decorated for the occasion. The committee of arrangements was made up as follows: Harry Plegier, chairman; Fred Withers, Harry Nies, Henry Pollanz and the Misses Nora Schreier, Mary Hirschfelder and Cecelia Parr.

WILL OPEN LADIES' EXCHANGE.

Mrs. W. E. Arick, widow of the engineer who lost his life in the disaster at Swinney park August 13, when the Pennsylvania special was derailed, has planned for opening a Ladies' exchange at her home, 1320 Winter street. Mrs. Arick will be ready for business next Wednesday and she is looking to the families of railway people for a good share of her patronage.

Pennsylvania Engineer S. P. Speere and Engineer C. A. Schroeder and Fireman H. B. Enders are off duty on account of sickness.

RETURNED TO THEIR DUTIES.

Machinist Henry Meyers, who had an eye seriously hurt last July; Machinist Fred G. Olds, who had an ankle sprained six weeks ago; Machinist John Michels, who had blood poisoning as a result of running a nail in his foot November 4; Boilermaker F. A. Moser, who was hurt a month ago; Boilermaker J. Huth, hurt two weeks ago; Machinist J. Moran, sick for a week or two, and Boilermaker A. H. Koenenman, sick a week, reported for work at the Pennsylvania shops this morning.

Machinist Ed Paul resumed work at the Pennsylvania shops this morning, after an absence of two or three weeks.

SICK LIST INCREASING.

The cold wave has had its effect upon the absentee lists at all of the shops of the city and particularly in the railway shops. This is noticeable in the size of the absentee lists. The lists at the Pennsylvania shops this morning contained the following new names, all the owners being sick: H. W. Seibert, H. H. Burlage, J. Rank, Charles Volz, W. Griner, W. H. Miller, Walter Ferguson, George Danely, W. A. LaPointe and F. A. Cornielle.

TRAINS ALL LATE.

The steam roads are still feeling the effects of the cold and all passenger trains are late in reaching the city, while the freight train schedule is much more seriously affected. On none was the demoralization greater than on the Wabash, where some of the passenger trains were over three hours late in reaching Fort Wayne.

MRS. WILMORE IMPROVING.

Mrs. F. E. Wilmore, wife of the Pennsylvania engineer residing on East Lewis street, who was operated upon for the removal of a growth Saturday, at the Lutheran hospital, passed through

MAKES MONEY ON HIS FOX RANCH

Retired Farmer Does Business of $12,000 to $15,000 a Year.

MAINE MAN'S PLAN

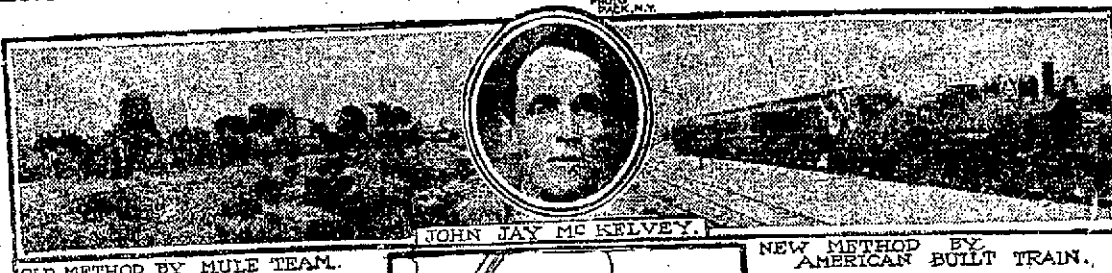

Foxcroft, Maine, Jan. 6.—It is probable that in a small way and upon a few acres of rough and rocky land Elijah Norton, an elderly hunter of this village, has reared and sold more young foxes of the red, silver gray and black varieties than any other citizen of New England. The 10,000 acre estate of the late Austin Corbin at Newport, N. H., has been growing foxes now for more than twenty years. Barb wire fences eleven feet high and strung at six inches between the wires will not stop foxes in New England, so while there may be 5,000 foxes on the Corbin preserve they are all wild and except for an occasional pelt the investment has not yielded a dollar in the more than twenty years since the wire fence was erected. Surplus income have been sold alive in small herds at an average of $1,000 a moose and young buffalo have been sold to Canada for $1,500 to $2,000 apiece. All this time the foxes have proved a dead loss, though they have been fed on boiled beef livers as often as three times a week.

Elijah Norton's little fox preserve is fenced clear around with close wire netting, which not only turns under for six feet on reaching two feet below the surface, to prevent the foxes from digging out, but there is a wire netting overhanging inside the fence at the top which hangs down from the fencing stakes, like the eaves of a barn, so when an ambitious fox attempts to climb over it comes against the surface of the inclined wire and abandons the task as a hopeless undertaking.

ENTERPRISING AMERICANS BUILD FIRST RAILROAD IN URUGUAY

By the first of the year it is expected that one section of the first railroad in the River Plate countries in South America to result from American initiative and enterprise, backed by American capital and using American materials, will be in actual operation. John Jay McKelvey, president of the road, has returned to New York from a tour of inspection and brought with him a photograph of the first train to be made up there. When two small streams have been bridged, he said, practically everything will be in readiness.

Mr. Norton has been able to secure very few young black or silver gray foxes from his matings. It is discouraging to keep a pair of adult black foxes, which will bring some $4,000 a pair alive, in a pen by themselves for six months or a year, and have the mother fox bring forth a clutch of eight young foxes, six of which are bright red, one coal black and one a very ordinary cross fox whose pelt may bring $30 when full grown.

Ernest Thompson Seton's Tip.
A stranger may have to talk with the aged hunter for hours before he learns that it was Elijah Norton, assisted by a bad snowstorm and Ernest Thompson Seton, who discovered that young foxes could be raised as easily upon baked hock as they could upon boiled and shredded beef liver. The Canadian naturalist was staying in Foxcroft at the time when the Norton fox preserve ran short of liver. The

THE LYRIC THEATER

The Manager of the Lyric Closes a Deal Whereby Only First Run Pictures Will Be Shown.

Late Saturday afternoon the manager of the Lyric contracted for fourteen reels of first run film, two to be shown each day. This places the Lyric in advance of any picture house in northern Indiana. This means that the patrons of this house will see two reels of pictures each day, the first time that they run through the machine, these pictures not having been exhibited anywhere before they come to the Lyric. The very best productions of the independent manufacturers have been selected to make up the program, with the result that fourteen feature pictures will be shown each week. Some of the big ones coming are "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," "East Lynne" in 2,000 feet and Marion Leonard, the queen of pictures, stars in twenty-four special productions, all of which will be run first at the Lyric. For today the pictures are "A Winning Miss," an Imp, and "The Winning of La Mesa," an American, with Warren Kerrigan in the leading part. In addition, there will be two vaudeville acts, headed by Ola Hayden, "The Girl with the Big Voice," and Mildred Scott, singing and dancing act.

S.S.S. NATURE'S CURE FOR RHEUMATISM

The conditions and causes which produce Rheumatism all suggest a healthful vegetable remedy as the surest and safest cure. The disease is brought about by the accumulation of uric acid, an irritating, pain-producing property in the blood. This causes a weakening and souring of the circulation which then becomes unfit for nourishing the body, while the deposits of uric acid in the nerves, muscles, joints and bones produce the pain and agony of Rheumatism. To treat the trouble with medicines containing potash or other strong minerals, is simply adding another poison to the already weak, diseased blood, sapping it of its remaining vitality, and perhaps in the end making a physical wreck of the sufferer. The one safe and only cure for Rheumatism is S. S. S. It is nature's remedy for this disease, made entirely from healthful vegetable ingredients extracted from the roots, herbs and barks of the forest and fields. S. S. S. goes down into the blood and removes every trace of the cause of Rheumatism, cleanses and purifies the circulation, and restores health and comfort to those who are suffering from this painful disease. There is but one way to be sure you are not dosing your system with mineral medicines, and that is to take S. S. S. Book on Rheumatism and any medical advice free.

LONG CLASH IN ARMY AND NAVY

"Staff" and "Line" Cling to Old Aristocracy in Service.

LINE NOW COMING UP

Washington, Jan. 8.—The army and navy, created for the defense of the nation, have not confined their fighting to hostile enemies of the nation. Since their inception the men of both branches have done considerable fighting among themselves, that is, within each branch. This fighting has been between the "staff" and the "line." At present the line in each service is in the ascendancy. The fight this year is being waged by the staff to force the line down and the staff up. A few years ago the fight was one way in the army and the opposite in the navy; that is, the staff was in the ascendancy in the navy and the staff was fighting it. In the navy Secretary Meyer is the pivot around which the fight is being waged; in the army it is Major General Leonard Wood and the general staff.

For years in both the army and the navy administrations in Washington the services have been controlled by a small coterie of officials called the staff, or bureaucracy. These officials made the regulations, dictated the styles of equipment and dress, and generally administered the whole service. In the navy none of these officers ever went to sea or saw a warship in operation. In the army none of these officers ever spent a day in camp, field or garrison.

When the war with Spain came the army and navy were being administered by these officers. They were strongly entrenched through political influence, and were really war lords by heritage. It is charged by line officers that it was the inexperience of these officers that caused such a mix-up in the dispatching of vessels and troops at the outbreak of that war.

Immediately after the close of the war with Spain, and while the army and navy were trying to pacify the warring Filipinos, the line in both services began a systematic attack on the staff, or bureaucracy. The line are those officers who do actual war duty. In the navy they are the men who have charge of the battleships, live with the enlisted men and know the strength and weakness of the ships. In the army the line are those officers who have direct charge of the troops, of their movements in battle, and the care of them in health and sickness. They are responsible for the whole fighting force.

It was not until Elihu Root became secretary of war that the line in either the army or navy actually accomplished anything. Through the aid of several high-line officers and with the assistance of President Roosevelt, Secretary Root took the control of the army out of the hands of the staff, or bureau heads, and placed it in the hands of active officers. For this purpose the general staff was created under a law providing that a certain number of officers of various ranks, down to and including captains, should

MONUMENT TO BE ERECTED TO GEN. MACEO, HERO OF CUBA'S WAR

Cuban Congress Desires to Honor General Maceo's Memory.

The Congress of Cuba has made an appropriation of $50,000 for the erection in Havana of a monument to Major General Antonio Maceo, the well known hero of Cuba's war of independence. Sculptors of all countries have entered the competition opened by the Cuban government, which will decide at the end of next January, selecting the best project according to the opinion of the government. Many artists in Spain have sent models, among them Señor Don José Campeny, of Barcelona, whose model is approved and endorsed by the Marquis of Marlauno, Alcalde of Barcelona, and many other prominent persons of the same city.

MODEL IN COMPETITION FOR THE MONUMENT TO MAJOR GENERAL ANTONIO MACEO.

and regiments, and now officers take their places on the staff. As Secretary Root pointed out, this system gives every officer in the army a general training, teaches each one the different duties of the army. It had taught hundreds of officers how to be good quartermasters, good commissaries, paymasters, signal officers, etc.

The change did this, however. It prevented any of those officers having permanent detail in the various army corps from ever reaching a rank above that of major general. A majority of these never have and never will get above the rank of brigadier general. But the number of these officials are few, not one-twentieth of the officers of the army.

The fight this year by some of these older officers is to change the system back to the old one, to place the control of the army in the hands of a few officers who would always govern the army from Washington and not permit one of the officers who is responsible in the field in time of war to have a say as to how the troops should be landed, how they should be clothed, or have anything to do with the administering of the army.

For the purpose of making the change Representative Hay, chairman of the committee on military affairs, has prepared a bill which he will try to attack as a rider to the army appropriation bill, and thus make the change a law. In addition to turning the army over to the old bureau heads, it provides also for the lengthening of the terms of enlistment for the men from three to five years, although, according to all reports issued by the army, there were more desertions when terms of enlistment were five years than since they have been three.

In the navy the fight is about the same as it is in the army. When Secretary Meyer took up the duties of his office he found that the officers in charge of the various bureaus had not been to sea in years, some of them never. He set about changing the system. He figured that the men who knew most the needs of the navy were those who were daily in charge of the vessels, that the best men to know what improvements were necessary to put and keep vessels in fighting trim were the men handling them, and not the officers who saw the vessels only in plans and specifications.

Secretary Meyer began at once to increase the efficiency of both the craft and the personnel. Like Secretary Root, he figured that the best way to get efficiency was to teach all officers all about the navy and not have them specialize. He did not want men to be mere constructors and engineers or navigating officers or ordnance officers; he wanted all to be all of these, and he set in operation his scheme to make them so. At once he met with opposition from those officers who had long been in the chairs in Washington. But he got a large part of his program through, enough to bring in from sea duty four of five of the highest officers. These he appointed aides, and they virtually made up what is the general staff of the navy.

As a result many of the officers have already served tours of duty as engineers, navigators, ordnance officers and constructors. Eventually he will have the rotation working all down the line. It is common now to go aboard ship and see one of the officers strip himself of his braid and jump into a pair of overalls and go climbing over the engines of the ship; or to see an officer go below into the magazine rooms and work alongside the men. Under this system every officer aboard ship performs every duty; he does not specialize. And younger men are now running the navy.

Senor Campeny, of Barcelona, Among Those Who Enter the Competition.

General Maceo, the famous Cuban patriot, was born in Santiago, Cuba, on July 14, 1848. He joined the insurgent army as a private in 1863, and though without martial training his natural military ability and personal magnetism as a leader soon brought him to the front, making him second only to Gomez. In December, 1896, while crossing the trocha between Magana and Mariel, attended only by his staff, he was surrounded by a Spanish force and was killed.

KOKOMO, Ind., Jan. 8.—Throughout a fire which destroyed the residence of H. Boyd yesterday morning, Mrs. Chester Lavengood lay prostrate from the effects of an operation of a few days ago. The physician, Dr. Lamarr Kneple, and a trained nurse remained at her bedside in the front room, on which the firemen played a constant stream of water. The patient remained cool to the last moment, and, after the house was practically destroyed, was removed across the street to the home of a neighbor while the thermometer was at 10 degrees below zero.

DECATUR'S CITY DEBT

GREATLY REDUCED

Reduction Has Been Made During the Last Few Years—Enters Prosperous Era.

Decatur, Ind., Jan. 8.—That the city of Decatur is facing an unusually prosperous era is evidenced by information gleaned from City Treasurer William J. Archbold. It is said that the city debt is at present only about $50,000, and when one considers that about six years ago the debt was $125,000 and that the great reduction has been made during that remarkably short time, the city certainly has great cause for rejoicing. The city electric light plant is a source of great profit, and this with the high tax rate has brought the money at a rapid rate for the payment of the debt. Of course with the payment of the indebtedness will come a lower tax rate, and this will be hailed with great rejoicing. City Treasurer Archbold has promised a statement showing the city's indebtedness and financial statement, which will be of much interest. This he will have ready about February 1st.

BIG WAGE PAY ROLL

King Piano Co., at Bluffton, Pays $9,000 a Month.

Bluffton, Ind., January 8.—The A. J. King Piano company, which carries the largest payroll of any Bluffton institution, has a good showing to report for the year 1911, and the outlook is for a still better year for 1912.

There are at this time about 200 employees on the payroll at the King factory and the average for the last six months of the year will run close to this number, and the indications for 1912 are that the force will be further gradually increased to take care of the growing business.

The total paid out in wages by the company for the year 1911 was $109,490.31, an average of over $9,000 per month. The average for the last few months of the year ran considerably higher, one semi-monthly payroll in December running over $6,000, and the average for 1912 on the basis of the preceding months of 1911, will doubtless run above $10,000.

OHIO MAYOR IS REPUDIATED.

Socialist Official at Lima Formally Read Out of Party.

Lima, Ohio, Jan. 8.—Mayor Corbin Shook, socialist, who was charged with having repudiated an anti-election promise to resign if asked by a majority of the members of his party, yesterday was formally read out of the party at a mass meeting here. Safety Director Edwin Blank, who also had come into the bad-graces of his party, said he spoke for himself and other appointees, and declared they would accept their positions despite the action of the party. Their cases were referred to the legislative committee. Mayor Shook got "in bad" because of several of his appointments.

STONE IN KIDNEY

An interesting case was that of Mr. H. L. McHugh, a member of the firm of H. L. McHugh & Co., of the Crocker Building, San Francisco.

The case was puzzling. There was pain in the kidney with a showing of blood, examination by seven physicians proved that the blood was from the kidneys and it was the opinion of all that there was a stone cutting the kidneys as the least exercise caused a showing of blood.

Four X-ray pictures were taken, three of them showing a stone half an inch in diameter. The stone was cast, a similar stone about the same size taken from a patient was put under him for comparison.

An operation was about decided upon when Fulton's Renal Compound was recommended to Mr. McHugh. He feared the knife and it took a long time to get him to take the medicine.

Within ten weeks the blood and pain had ceased and in six months he considered himself well.

We also have a three-page letter from an old-school physician, a lecturer in one of the San Francisco Medical Colleges, covering a similar case of stone in the kidney. An operation seemed inevitable.

He prescribed Fulton's Renal Compound upon the theory that as it was getting results in nephritis it ought to have some effect to reduce the inflammation and excessive uric acid that attends calculus. He was so surprised to get a complete recovery that he thought a complete recovery ought to be made of it and gave us the letter above referred to.

Fulton's Renal Compound seems to have about the same percentage of efficiency in stone in the kidney that it has shown in Bright's Disease.

For free literature, address the John J. Fulton Co., 615 Battery St., S. F., Cal. Fulton's Renal Compound can be had of our agent, D. & N. Pharmacy, 623 Calhoun St.

THE MINOT MEMORIAL. CHARLES KEEK, SCULPTOR.

Mrs. E. H. Harriman and two associations of railway telegraphers are erecting at the station of Harriman, formerly known as Turners, N. Y., a memorial to Charles Minot, who in 1851 transmitted the first train order by telegraph. Mrs. Harriman is giving the stone part of the monument. The bronze tablet was modeled by Charles Keek, a prominent sculptor of New York.

Letting of the contract for the imposing Hell Gate railroad bridge, which will serve to connect Long Island with the mainland at a point near the Harlem river, marks the beginning of work on the most imposing structure of its kind in this country, and the longest bridge of its type in existence. Its dominating feature will be a massive arch bridge four one thousand feet span, carrying four tracks capable of accommodating the heaviest railroad freight traffic. The total length of the bridge, including approaches, will be three miles.

The sacred college, as it stands today, is unquestionably a remarkable body. It is the only kind of international parliament that is practicable. Though thoroughly aristocratic in its character, its ranks are recruited from all classes of society, and a man of the people by merit, or a prince, indeed, repeatedly in the church's history, holiness, scholarship and administrative genius have won for their possessors the cardinal's hat and even the papal tiara.—Review of Reviews.

U. S. MINISTER TO CHINA ASKS FOR TROOPS TO PROTECT RAILROAD

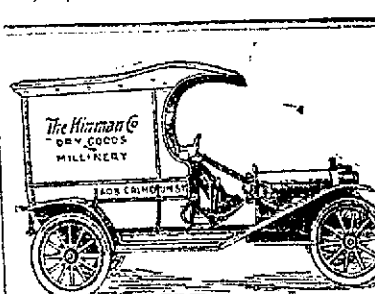

WILLIAM J. CALHOUN.

Mr. W. J. Calhoun, the American Minister to China, has cabled to Washington requesting that troops be immediately sent inland for the protection of the Chin Wau-tao-Pekin Railway communication. Recent dispatches indicate that the Chinese soldiers of the imperial army at Chin Wau-tao maintained and notified the legations at Peking that they would fight for a republic. Three thousand Manchou troops were rushed at once to quell the mutiny. Chang Yin Tang, whose portrait is shown above, is the retiring Chinese Minister to Washington.

MAKE RECORD IN ROAD BUILDING

Oklahoma Folk Construct 33 Miles in Just Ten Hours.

CITIZENS WORK FREE

Chandler, Okla., Jan. 8.—The Thirty-three Miles of Road Without a Cent Association—that's its real name—recently took Lincoln county by the bootstraps and lifted about half the county out of the mud by building a highway thirty-three miles in length across the county.

This highway was graded and finished in ten hours. Fourteen hundred teams and several thousand men, including farmers, merchants, doctors, lawyers, bankers and mechanics, did the work. And the taxpayers were not called upon to pay a cent—the highway was a free will offering by communities tired of sitting back and reading good roads literature without making an effort themselves.

This new highway, passes through Osage, Union, Chandler, North Choctaw and South Choctaw townships, and on its routes are the towns of Chandler, Agra and Meeker.

Banker Starts Movement.

Among the progressive citizens of Chandler is a banker, H. M. Johnson, who devotes his spare time to talking and writing about good roads. He has been doing that for years. Johnson started the movement that led to the Thirty-three Miles of Road Without a Cent Association, and everybody that heard of it helped him.

The plan was first discussed in the local newspapers. Then letters were written to leading farmers in the different townships to stir them into action. They were urged to get their neighbors to agree on a day to be named they would assemble along the highway with their teams and implements and at a given signal begin work.

Mr. Johnson knew a thing or two about how to do such things, and he invited the road overseers and the other officers of the different townships to be his guests at a dinner in Chandler. All came with good appetites. After dinner the proposal to build a good road across the county in a single day was discussed in detail and approved. Then the Thirty-three Miles of Road Without a Cent Association was organized with L. R. Nichols and George A. Smith, both newspaper editors, as president and secretary respectively.

Each township trustee was made a vice-president of the association and each road overseer a captain of work. The farmers in each township were requested to organize and elect additional captains if necessary. All the captains and township officers were to solicit labor from farmers and other living in their townships, and each set of township officers was to be held responsible for the success of the work in their respective townships.

The question of the route along which the work should be done forced trouble, as each farmer was desirous of having the good road as near as possible to his farm, but the question was thrashed out harmoniously and the route chosen.

A week after the Johnson dinner the township trustees and road overseers assembled again in Chandler and a report was made upon the number of teams and laborers secured. The five townships had an average of more than 200 teams each, and sufficient tools and implements to employ them. The three towns of Chandler, Agra and Meeker came forward with 400 additional teams. The board of county commissioners caught the fever and voluntarily gave all the giant powder to blow every tree, stump, rock or other obstruction off the highway. December 7 was set as the day for changing one of the worst highways in Oklahoma to one of the best.

In order to get tools from adjoining townships, a prize of $10 was offered to the farmer who would gather the biggest load of road scrapers and deliver them on the line of work. This brought several hundred extra scrapers. The prize was won by M. M. Henderson, of South Fox township, who had thirty scrapers piled high on his wagon when he appeared to claim the prize money.

Interest was lent to the approaching event by a challenge issued by Colonel Roy V. Hoffman to Mr. Johnson, defying the latter to join him in working all day in helping build the road. Hoffman for years has been the commanding officer of the First Regiment Oklahoma National Guard, and has held numerous important official positions in Oklahoma. The challenge stated that the man doing the least satisfactory work should "stand" an oyster supper, at which all the township officers and road captains should be guests. Mr. Johnson instantly accepted the challenge and went into training.

The mayors of Chandler, Agra and Meeker issued proclamations declaring December 7 a holiday.

SUES TO SAVE BODY OF SISTER

Texas Man Wants to Keep It from Dissecting Table.

ALSO ASKS DAMAGES

Fort Worth, Texas, Jan. 8.—The body of a woman is an object of litigation in Texas courts.

C. W. Echols, 1002 Jarvis street, originated the proceeding by filing a suit of reclamation for the body of his sister, Mrs. Wallace Palmer, held by the Fort Worth Medical college for dissection, and for $40,000 damages against the college.

The reclamation writ was issued, and when the medical college failed to exercise its rights to replevin the body within ten days, the plaintiff filed a bond of $200 and gained possession of the body, pending the judgment of the court.

Under the terms of the replevin bond, the person in possession of the body obligates himself to produce the "property" in controversy in court when final judgment is rendered, in good condition, subject to the fulfillment of the court's decree.

But the body of Mrs. Palmer was buried without objection from the college, and if the suit is decided in the college's favor, the bond of $200, alleged to be an amount equal to twice the value of the body, will be forfeited.

Mrs. Palmer died in destitute circumstances, November 13. Echols alleges that he did not learn of his sister's death until December 6. Friends bought a shroud, but were unable to pay other burial expenses.

Under a Texas statute an undertaker may turn over to a medical college for dissection purposes the body of one whose relatives or friends fail to claim it for burial, or to pay the burial expenses. The undertaker took advantage of the statute, but Echols contends that he was not notified, and that in any case, the statute does not permit a body to be held after relatives have made a demand for its possession. Because of its unusual features, the outcome of the suit is watched with interest by attorneys.

HOOKS AND EYES

By Henry M. Hoyt, Jr.

THEY are one of the white man's burdens. I have no doubt that we have all come under the joke, at one time or another—either as sons, brothers, or husbands. Nobody is immune, unless it be such lucky creatures as orphans and old bachelors. The masculine mind rebels and inveighs again it with surprising unanimity and great forcefulness. But woman will wear what Dame Fashion and the dressmaker create, and the laws of the universe are not lightly to be set at naught, as was discovered, all in good time, by young Mr. and Mrs. Hayward.

They had been married a little over a year, and had fared extremely well, considering. Naturally, there had been differences of opinion, slight quarrels due to the instinctive independence and intolerance of youth, but nothing of any serious import. Withal, the fates had been kind and conditions favorable. Their worldly circumstances were, to say the least, perfectly satisfactory; in fact, the very circumstances of the average bride-to-be, who expatiates to her friends in such words as these: "Of course, we'll be as poor as church mice, you know. We won't go out at all, and we've taken the dustiest flat, etc." Little humbings, whose airs of sham poverty give to their hearers complete assurance of at least five thousand a year. But digress.

In Mr. Hayward, even the most caring mother-in-law could have found very little at which to cavil. To all outward appearances, he was the docile husband par excellence. Also, he was undoubtedly generous. But beneath this shining exterior was concealed a grave fault, as yet unknown to his wife. Let it be breathed softly—he did not like to "hook her dresses up the back." In the parlance of the day. As a matter of fact, in the opinion of an expert, the operation is more easily performed from the top downward.

October had come and gone, in its glory of golden earth and sky; with it, almost all of Mrs. Hayward's dress allowance for the following month. The riches of her trousseau had quite given out, and, besides, there were so many fascinating things in the modistes' shops. In spite of her financial condition, she had set her eyes and her heart upon a certain light-blue creation in the establishment of one whose windows bore the cryptic legend, "Lucille, Robes et Mantoux." Whether the garment in question was a "robe" or a "mantoux," I should be hard pressed to tell you, but suffice it to say that it was a dream of something over something else, and "princesse," whatever that may chance to be. Princesses gowns set off her slight figure to perfection, and Steve had always adored her in light blue. Therefore, she had gone so far as to have it tried on, and had found that it fitted beautifully—as though it were predestined for her, she thought.

"Just a very few alterations," purred the siren voice of Lucille. "Madam has such a girlish figure."

Would he buy it for her? It was worth trying, at any rate. But, of course, she must lead him up to it gently, and contrive matters so that the suggestion would seem to come from him. Still pondering upon ways and means of beguilement, so absorbed that she hardly saw the crowds through which she passed, she returned home.

Now, Mr. Hayward usually lunched downtown, but on that particular day he had to see a man on business in the hotel district, and expecting to be detained for several hours, had told his office-boy that he would not be back until three o'clock. When the business was settled he found that it was only a little after twelve, so he decided to surprise his wife by dropping in on her. It was only a short time after her arrival that she heard his key in the outside door, and ran to meet him.

"Anything the matter, Stevie?" she asked as he kissed her.

"Nothing, dear, except that I've come to take pot-luck with you," he answered.

"Can luck would be nearer to the truth."

The both laughed, and their lunch passed off as hilariously as a picnic. Afterward she walked a short way downtown with him; and, behold, a few minutes found them both gazing into a window which bore the cryptic legend, "Lucille, Robes et Mantoux."

"Isn't it beautiful?" breathed Mrs. Hayward.

"Which?" asked the uninitiate male.

"The blue one on the left. I think it's perfectly lovely."

"She should have been enough. Mr. Hayward said about to tell his wife to buy the gown by all means, if she liked it so much; but he paused a moment to give an air of weighty masculine deliberation, and in that same moment the mischief was done. His wandering eye happened to fall upon a mirror in the corner of the show-window, placed there to give the feminine shopper a back view of the dazzling creation which had arrested her steps. It was not meant for the sacrilegious eyes of men, but he had seen enough to harden his heart.

Down the back of the dress from the collar ran a regiment of hooks and eyes, a chromatic scale of hooks and eyes—hundreds of them it seemed to his prejudiced imagination. Not content with marching in a straight line, they deployed at the neck and waist in a most intricate and depressing manner. His mind was made up to the fact that his wife should not have that dress—a monster with which he would have to struggle for his breathless minutes before he could hope to conquer, and which would trouble him all day long at the office with thoughts of the task in store.

Therefore he lied. "Jenny, what you can see in that thing I'm sure I don't know."

She was hurt, rather, but she didn't let him see it; and they walked on until they reached the Subway station, where he left her, saying that he would probably be a little late for dinner.

Things had not gone very smoothly at the office that afternoon. He had to cope with several troublesome clients, and, finally, a block on the road had held him prisoner in an Elevated train for thirty suffocating minutes. It was almost seven o'clock when he got home, so he wasn't in the very best of tempers when he started to dress for dinner.

By the time he had broken two collar-buttons, his state of mind bordered upon the distinctly annoyed. The voice of his wife calling from the bedroom-door brought him from his knees, this position having been assumed to better facilitate a search for a cuff-link, which had fallen under the edge of the chiffonier. He entered the other room without having recovered it, and saw his wife clad in a house dress, with her hands at the back of her neck, as though struggling with a hargman's noose.

"Please hook me, dear," she smiled. "I can't get down past the fifth."

She presented her back, which gave Steve the impression of a locust half out of its shell. This is hardly a poetic simile, but he was not in a poetic mood. Repressing a grimace of distaste, he began the operation. The dress was made of a rather stiff material, and the eyes were of that devilish kind which are little more than threads of silk.

He had trouble with the twelfth hook, and gave it a tug to bring it into place. Just as he succeeded, the five books above came undone simultaneously. When he turned to discipline the first of these, the rout became general, and he hit back an exclamation. Manfully he set to work to rally his forces, and virtuously fought down an inclination to let the eyes go, and fasten the books in the lace on the back of the dress. Two more and the job would be finished. But there was trouble still in store. One of these hooks had been bent flat, and in attempting to remedy this, he saw it under his thumb nail and swore.

"What makes you take so long, and why are you swearing?" asked Mrs. Hayward.

Now, this is hardly the most tactful way to address a long-suffering man, who has been struggling with a refractory gown for several minutes. But the memory of the modiste's window rankled, and she did not stop to think. It was a match to the magazine of her husband's temper. He drew a long breath and replied with unnecessary heat:

"I take a long time because of the idiotic construction of woman's clothes. Why any dress should be made so that nobody but a contortionist could fasten it is beyond my powers of reason. If you had a lady's maid, and were an absolutely helpless woman, dependent on her to dress you entirely, this one thing would make very little real difference. But in your case, it is sheer fear of the dressmaker and a blind reverence for foolish convention. There must be some other way to do it. How about all these women who live alone in flats? Do they have to call in the elevator-boy every day to assist in their toilet?"

He finished this Philistine, and fastened the last hook with a jerk to give greater emphasis to his words. His wife, freg at just, turned and walked by him, without a look, and passed down the hall into the dining-room. Still in a heat, he returned to his little dressing-room, tied his tie with a vicious tug, jammed his arms into the sleeves of his dinner-coat, and followed her, leaving the cuff-link forgotten on the floor.

She was sitting at the table with her head held high, and she gazed right through him as he entered. Neither spoke, and the noiseless waitress removed the soup-plates in an atmosphere ominously quiet. How pretty Jenny looked when she was by him, thought Steve, as he sat vainly trying to catch her eye across the table. Maybe he had been a brute and—

As the door closed on the maid, Mrs. Hayward broke in upon his thoughts:

"We are not going to allow ourselves to quarrel before the servants," she declared, with an emphasis suggestive of finality.

"Of course not, Jenny, dear. And I'm awfully—"

"Thank you, that is all I wished to say."

Well, if she was going to act that way, he could not help it. He had tried to make it up, and he had been snubbed for his pains. For that matter, he could show her that he had some pride, too. So thought Mr. Hayward, beginning to get angry again, and what was worse, to pity himself.

It was a miserable meal indeed. Hardly a word was spoken and then only when the waitress was in the room. Small use the agreement not to quarrel "before the servants." The strained silence spoke louder than reproaches; and, therefore, the cynical Della, aged nineteen, remarked to the cook: "They're at it at last, as I've been sayin' this month gone. Can't help quarrelin', these married people; they're all alike."

By dessert-time Steve was again contrite, and tried to speak to Jenny as she rose from the table, but she swept by him into the sitting-room, haughtier and more frigid than ever.

His face hardened and he stepped into the hall, put on his hat, and reached for his overcoat. All right, if that was the way she wanted to treat him. He would go to the club.

The closing of the hall door brought Jenny to her feet, and she hurried toward it, divining his purpose. She was sorry now, very sorry, and if only Steve, as he stood moodily prodding the elevator bell outside, could have seen her, this story would never have been written. But the stolid apartment house door intervened, and he little guessed that his wife was standing so near him, without the courage to turn the knob and see if he was still there. Sadly he went upon his way, rather to uphold a principle than to follow inclination.

He had actually gone out in the evening without her. Mrs. Hayward sat down to consider just what it meant. He had never, never, done such a thing before. Was this the thin edge of the wedge, the first warning of neglect to come? She began to imagine just how she would feel after five of ten years of this sort of life, and the self-pity brought back the previous anger. He really had spoken abominably to her, especially when referring to the lady's maid. What a temper he had, she thought: quite forgetting her own in contemplating his display of pyrotechnics. Oh, if she'd only known before it was going to be like this! Mrs. Hayward was also thinking. Work forgotten. The stuffy old men he sat looking up at a little photograph to scrutinize Steve from be-graph in a girl's face which hung above his desk. Dear Jenny, what a brave girl she was. How boring it must be to be cooped up in a lonely flat all day, and have to attend to the thousand-and-one trying details of housekeeping? He must be good to her to make up for it. "I tell you, a man doesn't always realize how fine his wife is," he muttered.

He shot a guilty glance in the direction of his office-boy, but that industrious youth was deep in a volume of lurid covers. Hayward leaped over and kissed the photograph.

And so it happened, when young Mr. Hayward's latch-key sounded his approach from the hall door, his wife was there to meet him. With her two little hands upon his shoulders, and her eyes cast down, she whispered softly:

"Steve, dear, I went out to Stacy & Wheeler's this afternoon, and got a dress that b-b-buttoned all down the front, but the horrid store people, haven't sent it, thought I made them p-promise."

One large arm went round her neck, and Steve kissed her boisterously, as he answered with a happy laugh:

"Telephone them in the morning not to send it. These department stores are much too unreliable, and, besides, they never have anything good enough for you. Jenny, darling, all day long at the office I felt badly about the way I acted last night, so I've brought you a little peace-offering."

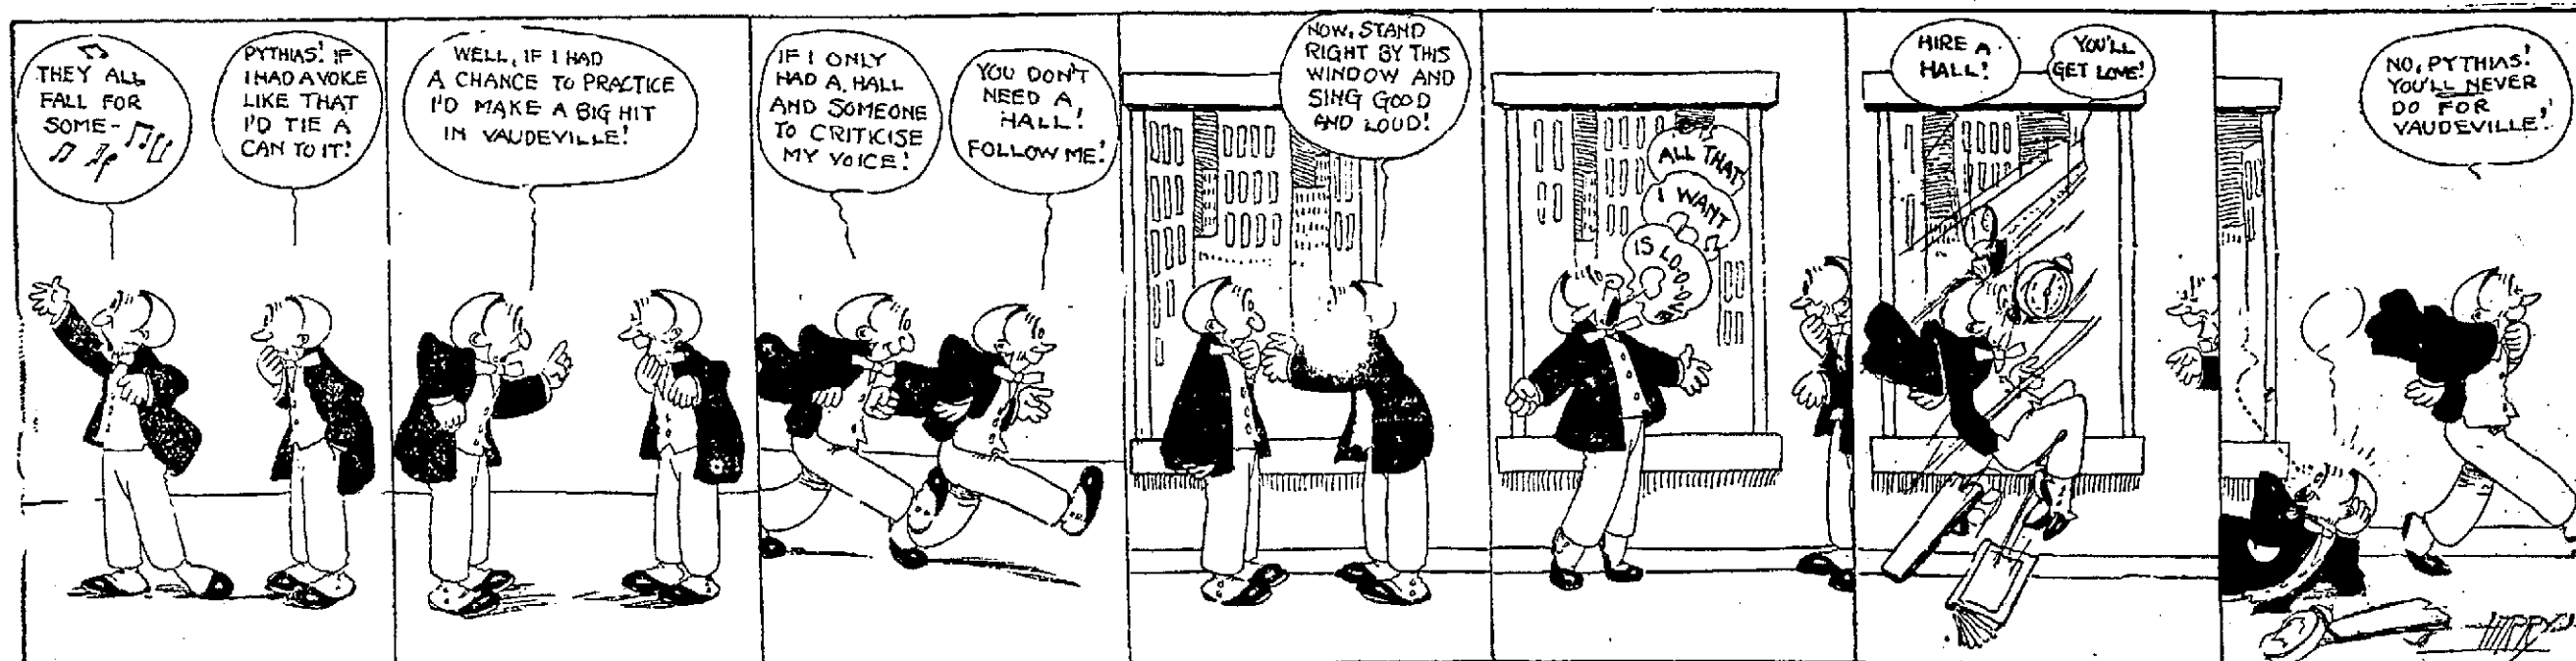

From behind his back came the other arm, bearing aloft an enormous pasteboard box, long and flat, the top of which bore the cryptic legend, "Lucille, Robes et Mantoux."

A BAD COLD IS EASILY BROKEN

Surely Cures a Cold and Ends Grippe Misery in a Few Hours.

There is not one grain of quinine in Pape's Cold Compound, which, when taken every two hours, until three consecutive doses are taken, will surely end the grippe and break up the most severe cold, either in the head, chest, back, stomach or limbs.

It promptly relieves the most miserable headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, catarrhal affections, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.

Pape's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars, and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe. Take this harmless Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine made anywhere else in the world which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25-cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

A new duplex phonograph has just made its appearance in Paris. Two duplicate machines are ranged side by side, in such a way that a record can be placed or installed in one of them, while the other is playing. The whole operation of "Carmen" has been recorded on fifty-four records. It takes about three hours to render them all.

Oloklen Makes Dry Cleaning at Home Easy and Thorough

TRY IT YOURSELF

Those of you who have tried dry cleaning at home and failed to get pleasing results will be pleased to know the reason why.

You wouldn't try to do a family washing without soap, would you? Then why try to do dry cleaning without the preparation which all professional dry cleaners use? OLOKLEN is used in gasoline just as soap is used in water.

OLOKLEN is as necessary in dry cleaning as soap is in washing. You can get some of the dirt out of wash goods without soap and you can get some of the dirt out of unwashables without Oloklen, but only a little in each case.

OLOKLEN is for sale at drug stores generally at fifty cents a can, enough to do $10 or $15 worth of dry cleaning. If your druggist doesn't have it in stock, notify Edward L. Mertz, Mfg. Chemist, Fort Wayne, Ind.

"DINK" TRENTMAN HERE.

Former Fort Wayne Man Greeting Old Friends in the City.

Herman J. Trentman, of Pittsburg, was in the city yesterday, a guest of the Anthony hotel, where he greeted a large number of old friends. Mr. Trentman was a resident of Fort Wayne years ago. He has been interested in a number of eastern race tracks and is regarded as one of Pittsburg's wealthy men.

A large and swift motor boat is to be used by the department of commerce and labor for the overhauling and inspection of the "oyster fleet" of Chesapeake bay, in order to put a stop to "shanghaiing" and other abuses which the department has determined to uproot. The revenue cutters which have heretofore been at the disposal of the department for this purpose have been unable to follow the offending oyster boats into the shallow creeks and shore waters in which they take refuge from pursuers.

Twenty years is the voting age in Switzerland.

GIVES BABY TO TOTAL STRANGER

To Make Sure of Not Reclaiming It Mother Takes No Address.

DOESN'T KNOW NAME

St. Louis, Jan. 4.—Worsted in her battle against poverty and sickness for herself and her two children, Mrs. Frances Jesse, twenty-five years old, a widow, has given away her two-months-old baby, Frank. An East St. Louis woman, whose name is unknown to the mother, took the child.

To make it impossible for mother love to cause her to interfere in the future with the rearing of her child, Mrs. Jesse refused to take the name and address of the woman to whom she entrusted Frank. She does not know where the child is, and perhaps he has gone completely out of her life.

Mrs. Jesse still has Michael, two years old. She can leave him with neighbors, she said, while she looks for work to support herself and Michael. When Frank was born, three months after his father's death, Mrs. Jesse found it impossible, she said, to keep her family together.

Weak from the lack of proper food and driven frantic by the cries of her hungry children, Mrs. Jesse told a neighbor, it was said, that she would end it all by jumping from Eads bridge with the two boys. The man was unable to help her, but took her to police headquarters, where she told her story. The police told her she could find a good home for the baby if she would let it be known that she would part with him.

Mrs. Jesse consented and newspapers told of the two-months-old baby who could be had for the asking. The East St. Louis woman called for Frank and carried him away.

"All I know is that she looks like a good, kind woman," Mrs. Jesse told a reporter, while tears fell on the head of Michael, whom she held in her arms. "I did not ask her name and address, for I did not want to know them. I feared that I might get sorry for what I had done, and try to get my baby back. It is better that I do not know where he is. I cannot interfere with him."

"It was just a case of sacrificing one for three. With only Michael, who is old enough to be left at home, I can get work that will keep us. With Frank I was helpless, and we all would have starved."

Cascarets Work While You Sleep

Salts, Calomel and Cathartic Pills are violent—they act on bowels as pepper acts in nostrils.

Take a Cascaret tonight and thoroughly cleanse your Liver, Stomach and Bowels, and you will surely feel great by morning. You men and women who have headache, coated tongue, can't sleep, are bilious, nervous and upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach or have backache and feel all worn out.

Are you keeping clean inside with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passage every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the decomposed waste matter and poison from the intestines and bowels.

Remember, a Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning. A 10-cent box from your druggist means a clear head and cheerfulness for months. Don't forget the children. advt
